NEW AGREEMENT MAY END THREATENED SINO-JAPANESE CRISIS

CHINA TROOPS WITHDRAW FROM AREA

Local Officials May Draft Pact for Peace

(By the Associated Press)
The central Chinese government, Japanese dispatches to Tokyo from Peiping said today, has agreed to recognize settlement of the north China crisis by local officials.

Officials said the agreement would remove much of the tension which both Japanese and Chinese had predicted might lead to war.

Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, commander of the 29th Chinese army and chairman of the Hopeh-Chahar political council, had agreed yesterday to a truce with Japanese.

It provided that both sides withdraw their troops from the battle area west of Peiping, where fighting broke out on July 7.

Nanking had insisted, however, that it would recognize no locally drafted pact, contending the issue were national and charging that Japanese sought to detach the provinces of Hopeh and Chahar from China proper.

Today, however, Japanese said, Nanking informed General Sung that his settlement with Japanese was satisfactory. Chinese troops already have begun withdrawing from the battle area, except for one division.

Japanese troops were expected to withdraw as soon as Chinese forces had completed evacuation. The Tokyo war office was reliably reported to have issued orders indefinitely suspending delivery of huge war supplies and halting shipment of them to north China.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

prerogative, and who am I to interfere?

Premonitions run in trios. Coroner Abbey calls attention to the death of a little child from burning matches, another falling into scalding water, and if the rule of three holds true another fatality is impending. Railroad men used to hold the same superstition. One wreck was followed by two others. Or a death on the rails called for two more victims before fate was appeased. So far as I am concerned I'm immune to these horrors. I've been followed by tough luck so relentlessly that I'm expecting anything to happen.

If the frozen orange controversy doesn't do anything but improve inspection methods, it's worth the fight.

My friend Eddie Marble is home from Forest Home, a retreat for honeymooners. He came rolling in last Saturday, with power furnished by Virgil Clem. When I met him yesterday he was rolling in the even tenor of his way, although some one told me later on he was a baritone. May life be a continuous symphony, young fellow, a continuity of harmony, and the long, long trail festooned with the flowers of happiness.

Baby Will Travel 6000 Miles Alone

SOUTHAMPTON, England. (AP) Four-year-old Jack Allamath was aboard ship today on a 6000-mile sea and air trip alone to be reunited with his mother in Los Angeles.

The child left yesterday on the Queen Mary.

Jack was brought to England a year ago by his father, former chauffeur for Walter Huston, the actor, in whose California household Jack was born.

Jack will be met at the dock in New York and put aboard a transport plane at Newark, N. J., for Los Angeles.

Czech Company Buys Villages

BELGRADE, Czechoslovakia. (American Wire)—Purchase of three Moslem villages in Yugoslavia, Macedonia, by a Czechoslovakian company, will result in transfer of the villages' total populations to Turkey, officials of a concern called the Bata company, announced today. Cotton plantations and silkworm farms will be developed in the region.

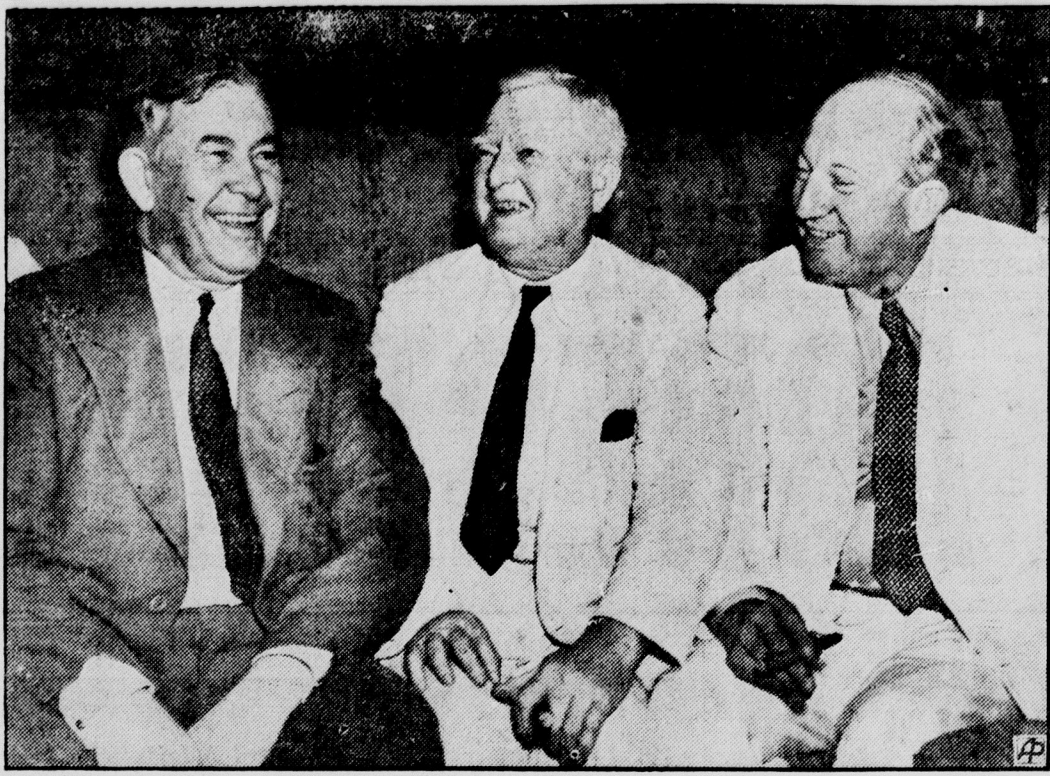

Build Cabins in Volcano Crater

HONOLULU, T. H. (American Wire).—Cabins in Hawaii's famous Haleakala volcano are being constructed by the CCC for use of hikers and horseback travelers to encourage them to enter the crater, witness the spectacular sunrises and sunsets to be viewed from within it.

Fire Goggles Are Approved

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (American Wire).—What kind of colored glasses are best for forest fire fighters is the problem being studied at the New York state college of forestry at Syracuse university. A neutral shade is best, the university scientists report.

'No Hard Feelings, Senator'

Although he was a candidate too to succeed Senator Joe Robinson as senate majority leader, Senator Pat Harrison (right) of Mississippi did not show any hard feelings as he congratulated Senator Alben W. Barkley (left) of Kentucky upon being chosen for the post. They are shown here talking things over with Vice President Garner on board the train which brought them back from Arkansas to Washington, D. C.

TAX PAYMENT REVISION SEEN

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The treasury is considering two methods of simplifying the job of paying taxes: revising income tax forms and creating a new revenue division to advise taxpayers.

Officials said today a special committee of internal revenue experts is trying to complete a new type of form for use in reporting 1937 incomes.

It will be designed to eliminate detailed and itemized statements not essential to the determination of tax liability.

WOMAN FLYER DOCTOR NAMED

SYDNEY, Australia. (American Wire)—The first woman flying doctor in the world has been appointed. She is Dr. Jean White, who has been named assistant to the Flying Doctor, Dr. G. W. Alberry, at Cloncurry, Queensland. Unfathomable rivers in the area necessitate this means of travel. The area is thickly populated with aborigines.

She Said 'Yes' After 43 Years Of Courtship

PALMYRA, Mo. (AP)—Forty-three years of courtship were over today and two natives of Illinois were on their honeymoon.

George F. Clark started keeping company with Dora Hedrick back in 1896. The courtship continued even though Clark has been raising wheat near Newell, Kan., for the past 30 years.

He returned to claim his bride this week and they were married yesterday.

King Gives Raspberries to 10,000 Guests

LONDON. (AP)—London's brilliant coronation social season came to an official end today with the king and queen's garden party for 10,000 guests at Buckingham palace.

Raspberries and cream is the favorite dish at royal garden parties and more than a ton of fruit was ordered for today.

Dr. Wunder Joins Chapel

Dr. Clinton Wunder, former firebrand of the Townsend pension movement who was ejected today from locking horns with Dr. Francis E. Townsend, officially entered the marriage business in Santa Ana today.

Dr. Wunder, Los Angeles lecturer, was listed as a partner in the Santa Ana Wedding chapel, 2112 North Main street, when Earl C. Bloss filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs a certificate of fictitious name.

The certificate lists Dr. Wunder, Bloss, and Dorothy Collins, the latter two of 2112 North Main street, as "those interested in such business."

Federal Charge Hits Distillery

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Administration W. S. Alexander of the Federal Alcohol administration has cited the Gate City Distillery, Inc., Los Angeles, for alleged violations of the administration's labeling regulations.

The commission said the concern was charged with labeling as 18 month old, whisky of a younger age. It said the concern would be given opportunity at a hearing in the near future to present its side of the case.

Ice Cream May Replace Chop Suey in China

SHANGHAI, China. (AP)—"Barbarian food." That's what ice cream was here only 10 years ago. Now, the Chinese have a word for it.

Most of China has hot summers and part of the country is semi-tropical, but the Chinese always have served tea hot no matter what the temperature, and Chinese chow is served steaming.

When Americans began to sell ice cream, the Chinese were afraid to taste it. Then a few students, returning from American schools, brought back freezers and to the surprise of their families ate the frozen stuff and lived. Gradually the conservative members of their families were won over although most of them melted ice cream before eating it. Now ice cream is sold all over the country.

NEW COURT BILL MAPPED

for the police assault did not go beyond abusive language, and the throwing of isolated missiles from the rear ranks of the marchers," the committee asserted.

"We believe that it might have been possible to disperse the crowd without the use of weapons."

The committee added that "uncontradicted photographic and oral evidence, corroborated by the admissions of the police themselves, established that their treatment of the injured was characterized by the most careless indifference to human life and suffering."

"Wounded prisoners of war might have expected and received greater solicitude," it related.

"By the frank admission of all the police, no attempt whatsoever was made to render first aid on the field. . . Wounded and dying strikers were unceremoniously thrown into police patrols along with uninjured prisoners."

"The record shows that each patrol wagon was equipped with a stretcher, yet the evidence is clear that not a single stretcher was employed to remove the wounded from the field."

"Indeed, as the photographs established, the police dragged seriously wounded, unconscious men along the ground with no more care than would be employed on a common drunkard."

CHICAGO MAYOR FOR LAW AND ORDER

CHICAGO. (AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelley, commenting on the report of the LaFollette civil liberties committee investigation of steel strike rioting here, said today he was "convinced the people of Chicago want law and order regardless of who is affected."

The report made public in Washington condemned Chicago police for the killing of ten men in the Memorial day demonstration near the Republic Steel company plant in South Chicago.

Utah Pilot's Ashes Scattered

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The ashes of Samuel J. Sampson, transport plane pilot, have been scattered along a portion of the Los Angeles-Salt Lake City air route from which he and six other persons crashed to their deaths last December, near Alpine, Utah.

Carrying out a wish of Sampson, his friend, Fred Kelly, of Western Air Express, flew over the route, and from an altitude of 10,000 feet sifted the ashes from a window of a regular W. A. E. transport plane.

SENATE PROBE HITS POLICE

day to ask the senate to send back to it the Roosevelt court bill with instructions to draft a substitute dealing only with the lower courts within 10 days.

In an hour and a half executive session attended by Vice President Garner and administration leaders, the committee instructed Senator Logan (D., Ky.) to make the motion in the senate today to recommend the pending compromise court bill.

Only two senators opposed the decision, first senators leaving the committee room said.

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), one of the leading foes of the bill, said the committee action would clear the way for drafting a new bill dealing only with procedure in the lower courts and eliminating all references to the size of the supreme court.

If the senate agrees to the proposal, the committee will have ten days in which to whip the new bill into shape for presentation to the senate.

The committee's action marked virtual abandonment of the compromise court bill now pending in the senate and was generally considered a complete victory for court bill foes.

EIGHT POINT PROGRAM

The new bill would follow the outlines, in a general way, of the bill suggested yesterday by Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), opposition leader, after he was asked by the administration to submit the opposition's suggestions for legislation.

The eight-point program, as outlined by Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), would provide:

1. No change in the supreme court.

2. No proctor to assign extra judges to relieve congestion in lower courts.

3. No "roving judges," who could be assigned wherever the proctor wished.

4. Direct appeal to the supreme court from lower federal courts, when matters of constitutionality are involved.

5. Intervention by the attorney general in any lower court case involving a constitutional question.

6. Reassignment of lower court judges wherever they may be needed by the senior circuit judge of each circuit.

7. Appointment of new judges on a basis of need, not of age.

8. Requirements that questions of constitutionality arising in lower courts can be settled only by a three-judge tribunal, including one circuit judge.

"There was no serious divergence of opinion," O'Mahoney declared. "We were all satisfied that everything was being negotiated in good faith."

"I have no doubt that we can get together with the administration on a bill satisfactory to everyone. As a matter of fact, a great deal of work already has been done, and I should not be surprised if it is finished by Monday or Tuesday."

He added that the eight-point program was worked out with the full participation and approval of the vice president, Majority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.) and Chairman Ashurst (D., Ariz.) of the judiciary committee.

NEW DEALERS INSIST ON F. D. R.'S PROGRAM

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A group of the senate's most ardent champions of the administration organized a campaign today for completion of the President's legislative program at this session of congress.

Senator Bone (D., Wash.) said the members would try to combat a growing sentiment to adjourn immediately after settlement of the court reorganization controversy.

The group will insist that congress stay in session, he said, until it passes at least three major measures—the housing, wage-hour and farm bills.

Texas farmers are converting "wet weather lakes" into fertile acres by terracing.

S. A. AIRSHOW GIVEN BOOST

They're still talking about Santa Ana's air show.

In fact, a national aviation magazine in its July issue devoted an entire page to pictures and an account of the first annual aviation show staged at the Martin airport south of Santa Ana, last month.

A descriptive article in the Pilot, national air magazine, points out the enjoyment good flyers can get out of cruising to such an air show as Santa Ana staged.

MAY REOPEN CRATER CASE

NEW YORK. (AP)—Revival of the almost legendary mystery—the disappearance seven years ago of Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater—brought from District Attorney William C. Dodge today an announcement he would be "glad to make a thorough investigation" of cases that the justice was slain by political enemies.

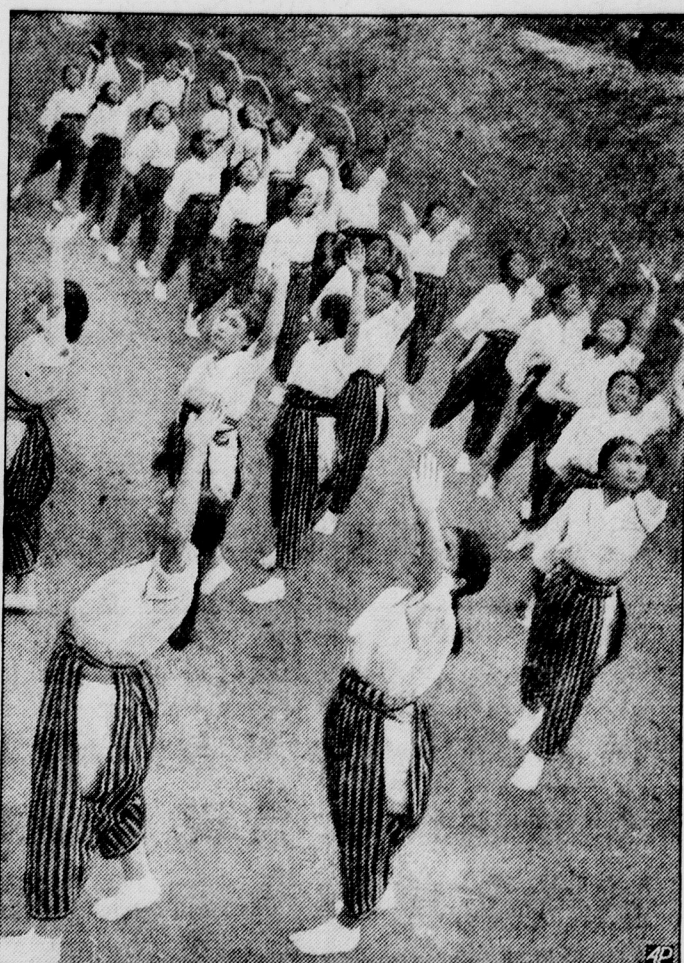

Dodge said he was willing to go over the entire case with the missing jurist's wife, Mrs. Stella M. Crater, quoted yesterday in a newspaper interview as charging her husband possibly was murdered in connection with his political career and that police were lax in their original investigation.

Pair Use Bodies For Receivers

MORAVIA, Czechoslovakia. (American Wire)—Claims of two artists that their bodies are excellent radio receiving sets were supported today by two Prague professors, Dr. Ernest, chairman of the Czech Radio Listeners' society, and Dr. Schafranek, physicist at the Karl university, following an examination.

Musicians from London and Paris, including London, Berlin and Paris, has been received by the men, it is reported. They hold hands and loudspeakers during the process.

Gold Sought With Seaplanes

SYDNEY, Australia. (American Wire)—Gold seeking and oil prospecting by seaplane is the program of expeditions investigating Papua resources, according to R. W. Robson, writer, who arrived here from Port Moresby.

"Gold-seeking and oil-prospecting parties are out in all parts of western Papua and communication is being maintained with the various parties by small portable radio sets and by seaplanes. There were three seaplanes in Port Moresby when the steamer left," he said. "The country is only partially explored, is covered with dense jungle and there are no landing

School Opens For Seamen

DON'T SHOOT, PLED TRAXLER

HUGO, Okla. (AP)—Return to a Texas prison farm loomed today for Roy (Pete) Traxler as the slippery Southwest gunman continued to withstand the effects of a bullet wound over the heart.

His companion in a 12-day flight lay in a morgue, a victim of the desperado's own guns. The companion, Fred Tindol, was shot and Traxler was shot by two host-ages the outlaws had kidnapped in their flight from almost 1000 of ficers in southern Oklahoma.

PAIR SNATCH GUNS
Frank Trimmer, 50, a farmer and J. E. Benton, 44, oil worker, snatched guns from the men's sides when the exhausted fugitives dozed in a car near Boswell, Okla.

"I tried to tell the guy he didn't need to shoot me because I was all through. But I just wasted my breath. He didn't wait for me to say anything. He just shot. I fell out of the car to keep him from killing me."

Trimmer, who was driving, was kidnapped from his home and forced to drive his car, after the two fugitives had ditched the car in which they kidnapped Benton.

START SHOOTING
Denton, riding in the back seat with Tindol, said he saw Tindol's gun on the seat. Traxler's gun was in the seat as he sat beside Trimmer. Traxler dozed.

"When I got the car parked and saw Traxler had dozed off," said Trimmer, "I glanced back at Denton and saw Tindol was asleep, too. Both of us grabbed for their guns. Both shot Tindol at the same time, and then Denton shot Traxler."

"Traxler begged us to get him a doctor. He said he was afraid he might bleed to death. After a while he started threatening us. He said he knew he was going to die."

'GIVE PALESTINE MANDATE TO U. S.' BRITISH LIBERAL PROPOSES

LEAGUE MAY DECIDE UPON PROPOSAL

Britain Drops Plan To Divide Holy Land

LONDON. (AP)—Geoffrey Mander, liberal member of parliament, proposed today that Great Britain hand over to the United States its mandate over Palestine, Jewish homeland.

Mander gave written notice that he will ask Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain Tuesday whether "in view of the British government's unwillingness to continue to administer its mandate for Palestine" the prime minister will "consider the advisability of proposing to the League of Nations that it should be offered to the United States."

COMPROMISE MOVE

The British plan to parcel Palestine between Arabs and Jews was side-tracked today in the house of commons in a compromise move after long and bitter debate.

A delay which would permit further study of the plan before final parliamentary action, submitting it meanwhile to the League of Nations, was decided upon in a rising vote by the chamber. It drew general support of the house.

The compromise came after Colonial Secretary William C. A. G. A. told the members that the present league mandate over Palestine is "no longer workable."

He submitted the British royal commission's recommendation that Palestine be partitioned between Jews and Arabs with British taking a new mandate over Palestine's Holy cities.

CRITICIZE PLAN

Both Arabs and Jews, long at odds in the Holy Land, have criticized the plan, the Jews arguing that it would block fulfillment of the ideal of a Jewish homeland since territorial restrictions would forbid any considerable immigration.

An independent laborite, Campbell Stevens, said the government "should state what would be its attitude if the United States or France is prepared to accept the mandate."

Will This Be U.S. Property?

Whinny of Protest Greeted Laguna Horses, Dog Ban

LAGUNA BEACH. — Horses will have to find homes elsewhere than near homefolds, and maybe dog will.

The city council last night responded to a petition filed several weeks ago, signed by residents on or adjacent to Laguna Beach, that would block fulfillment of the ideal of a Jewish homeland since territorial restrictions would forbid any considerable immigration.

An independent laborite, Campbell Stevens, said the government "should state what would be its attitude if the United States or France is prepared to accept the mandate."

VAN ANTWERP LAID TO REST

In a bronze casket Claude H. Van Antwerp, retired business man of Santa Ana, who died Sunday after a long illness, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon attended by a large assemblage of friends, business associates, and fraternal order brothers.

Many beautiful floral pieces sent by friends and admirers surrounded the casket, with a casket piece of gardenias and lilies of the valley as a covering. Fellow members of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club attended the services in a body, as well as 18 former employees of the Van Antwerp store here.

Among the floral offerings were pieces from former friends and business associates in Chicago, Oklahoma City, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, and many Southern California cities.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, to which Mr. Van Antwerp belonged. Music during the services was offered by Robert L. Brown who sang two selections.

BORN IN NEBRASKA

Mr. Van Antwerp was born in Edgar, Neb., in 1886, and made his own way from the time he was 15 years old. The son of a merchant, he immediately went into the same business and his first job was for the Huntley Dry Goods company of St. Joseph, Mo.

He was engaged in the wholesale men's furnishing business in Denver, Colo., under the firm name of Van Antwerp-Scott Mercantile company. It was during this time that he was involved in a serious automobile accident, the injuries from which caused him much suffering all his life.

Moving to California, he and Mrs. Van Antwerp, his business companion, re-entered business life, owning a controlling interest in a bank and an interest in two mercantile concerns of Baldwin Park. From Baldwin Park he moved to Los Angeles where he was engaged in the same business.

CRUISE TOLD TO LAWYERS

Thrilling incidents of a 16,000-mile cruise in a 16-foot canoe were related last evening by Dana Lamb to the Orange County Bar association at a regular meeting held in the Hotel Laguna, Laguna Beach. The speaker was introduced by Col. M. B. Wellington. In time, the Lambs beat Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast," in that three years were consumed in the journey. It took them into hitherto unexplored regions, with unexpected results, finally fulfilling a longing to experience a Robinson Crusoe sensation on Cocos island. Mr. and Mrs. Lamb put in two years' intensive training before undertaking this hazardous trip.

The Lambs explored the coasts of Mexico, Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica and Panama. They have the distinction of putting the smallest ship on record through the Panama canal. They explored rivers and went into the back country, located lost cities, lived with strange tribes and penetrated the forbidden country of Campeche.

The association accepted into full membership Clarence Edward Sprague, with the district attorney's office, and Fred D. Johnston of Drumm and Tucker.

The next meeting will be subject to the call of President Raymond Thompson.

ORANGE CITY COUNCIL ADOPTS $133,309 BUDGET FOR 1937-38

RAISE PAY OF OFFICIALS

Tax to Remain Same As Values Are Lowered

ORANGE.—Orange will spend $133,309 next year, according to the tentative budget adopted at a meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon.

This figure is less than that of last year, which was $151,499, but will not mean any reduction in the tax rate, as there is less in the holdover balances of various funds this year.

A total of $96,626 is to be raised by taxation, or only about $260 less than last year. It was explained also that the property valuation has been reduced in several sections of the city, thus making it a possibility that the tax rate may be increased slightly over that of last year.

No rate can be set until final adoption of the budget Tuesday, Aug. 3.

BUDGET CHANGED

The first draft of the budget figures was changed slightly when the police fund was increased by $240 to cover $20 per month for Mrs. Clara Haines, policewoman, which was taken from her salary in June and restored at Wednesday's meeting.

Salary increases were granted several city employees yesterday. Those affected are Police Chief George Franzen, given an increase of $10; Officers G. W. Coltrane, V. G. Wolfe, Thomas Towns, Carl Krueger, John Eltiste, Jim Johnson and A. H. Westerman all received small increases.

SALARIES RAISED

In the street department, City Engineer C. C. Bonebrake got an increase of $25 per month, and Jack Barnett, Henry Neuenschwander, C. H. Caster, W. H. Broyles, Ben Pearson and R. W. Ratliff all received $5 per month increases. Ben Dierker, park superintendent, Ernest Davis and Mrs. Emma J. Pruitt, city treasurer, all obtained raises.

A request from City Judge L. E. Coburn for an increase in pay was tabled for the second time, and amounts to a refusal by the council. The judge asked $100 a month.

U.S. NAZI HEAD HITS INQUIRY

ANDOVER, N. J. (AP)—Stalwart August Klapprott, New Jersey leader of the German-American Bund, today stated that a congressional investigation of the Bund, whose activities a Veterans of Foreign Wars unit called "un-American," would be a "flop and waste of tax payers' money."

At Washington Representative Dies (D., Tex.) introduced a resolution yesterday to inquire into "Nazi propaganda activities."

Dies said one reason for his resolution was the Bund's 21 camps where he declared "open allegiance is being pledged to Hitler." He charged "millions are being sent from abroad to finance attempts in this country to enlist support for nations and movements in Europe."

Klapprott declared "only American citizens may join the Bund, built up by nickels, dimes and dollars from members in $25 shares, dues and renting camp space."

Aged Man Races With Death To Complete Church Bells

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Dr. Nathaniel Coulson, 84 and proud of it, says he has no intention of dying for at least two years, because it will take that long to install the 30-bell cathedral carillon for which he is donating nearly all his income.

The bells are the dream of the pleasant little retired dentist, who says he has given $67,499 toward construction of the huge Grace cathedral atop Nob hill.

By so doing he has left himself little more than $1 daily for his own few wants at the old people's home where he lives. He said he had been repaid by watching the graceful gothic cathedral slowly rise on the hill, where it overlooks the city.

The Episcopal edifice, like the famous Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City, is being

MESA WELL ABANDONED

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Water trouble and apparent failure of what was thought to be a new production sand have caused abandonment of the brightest hope for oil seen in this district for several years, it was learned today.

Mesa Oil company's well on the bluffs overlooking Newport has been abandoned and more than 4000 feet of casing pulled, it was reported today. This action brings to an end the latest attempt to produce oil on the flats, where oil men have sought wells for more than 20 years.

Excellent gas showings were recorded at a new depth, but no production was obtained, it was reported, and with inability to obtain a water shut-off, operators of the well finally decided upon abandonment, oil men here said today. The project was reported backed by money of three Honolulu businessmen. The derrick will be torn down shortly, residents here said.

Laguna's Amateur Actors Upset as Director Leaves

LAGUNA BEACH.—Although upon the resignation of Frederick Rath, Broadway playwright directing the summer professional show "Night of January 16th" at the Playhouse, the players had decided to continue alone with "Fly Away Home" tonight, it was announced today the show would not go on.

Zalia Bonn, Eddie Johnson, Carl Chase, Frank Seward and others of the troupe carried on last Saturday's performance without the supervision of Rath, who, for several months has been planning a professional theater in Laguna.

At first determined to present "Fly Away Home," the troupe discussed possibilities with the Community Playhouse directors, who had leased the playhouse to Rath for a 10-week run.

Who will lease the playhouse next, and what steps the Community amateur players are to take, have not been announced. Professionals hired by Rath for his proposed 10-weeks run, however, definitely are not continuing. Many of the professionals left New York, Hollywood and Honolulu to work for Rath.

The opening of "Night of January 16th" was well attended, but with each subsequent performance, audiences dwindled in size. Local critics said that the last performance, staged by the players without assistance, was the best of the week, especially since Whilla Wilson as Karen Andre gave an "inspired performance."

Meanwhile, local theatricals are concentrated upon the Festival of Arts. The Theater guild is presenting three one-act plays in conjunction with the festival's "chateau sours."

Male 'Beauty' Named College Contest Winner

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP)—Pat Gibson, husky New Mexico State College student from San Antonio, Texas, reigned as masculine beauty king of the campus today.

A few synthetic curves, artfully concealed in the lacy folds of a silken two-piece bathing suit, caught the eye of the judges, who disregarded instructions that the award was to be made on the basis of knobby knees, agile Adam's apples and oversized bay windows.

DANGEROUS LUNATIC IS CAPTURED

Fugitive Surrenders To Deputies at Mesa

Surrendering without a fight, an escaped Patton state hospital inmate said to be criminally insane was captured by sheriff's deputies in Costa Mesa yesterday.

The man is John Reudy, cousin of the Patton superintendent, who was taken to the county hospital to await arrival of hospital guards and was taken back to the Highland institution this morning.

Telling relatives here that he had been released, Reudy came to Santa Ana on Monday. He conferred with a local attorney, who became suspicious of his story of being released, and wrote to Sheriff E. W. Biscailuz of Los Angeles. Biscailuz immediately queried Patton and was notified that Reudy, who had escaped on July 19, was dangerous while at large and that every effort should be made to locate him.

With the aid of the insane man's relatives, deputies here located him in Costa Mesa.

MARCONI WORK TO CONTINUE

ROME. (AP)—While his body lay in state today, associates of Guglielmo Marconi, following his directions, continued experiments the great inventor started before he died.

Although sorrowing because Marconi's death ended a collaboration of nearly 40 years, Marchese Luigi Solari talked enthusiastically of the promise of scientific legacies from Marconi's genius.

Solari, who is president of the Marconi company, said the problem which occupied the genius at the time of his death was the adaptation of naturally produced waves—such as the sun's radiation—to practical transmission of messages.

"When this problem is solved," Solari said, "radio communication will have available a vast new range of transmission channels."

"Marconi realized his heart condition and made careful provisions to insure the continuance of his work in the event of sudden death. Only the day before he died we studied together the data gathered in these experiments showing the effect of changes of temperature and barometric pressure on the behavior of micro-waves."

A GIFT FROM DOROTHY

HAVE you been in DOROTHY'S DRESS SHOP lately? If you haven't you're missing something. Two things, in fact. First, her sale of summer frocks—light prints, cool dark business, and shopping washables. . . . Second, her gift of a satin slip with every $7.95 purchase you make. A satin slip free! At DOROTHY'S, Sycamore at the Grand Central Market.

SCULLER'S SLIP-ING STYLE and Sculler are synonymous, from beach togs to formal—including slips. Or didn't you know about Sculler's slips? Stayed by Argin—nuff said. . . . One has a deep hem—make a formal of it. . . . All cut on a true bias. . . . Tailored and lace-trimmed $1.95 to $3.95. At SCULLER'S, 312 N. Sycamore.

SAVE DISHES HOW many nicked cups are there in your house? They're dangerous, as well as unorthodox. . . . The Rubber Drain Boards you'll find at HAMMOND BROS. CORP., 1246 S. Main, insure china and glass ware against breaking on slippery tile or metal work tables. . . . They're sanitary, easy to clean, decorative—the most modern drainboard on the market.

THE ROMANCE OF CLOCKS LAST week Mr. Trot and I talked about the picturesque American Banjo Clock, which is one of the two types of clocks of truly American origin. . . . The other type is the Shelf Clock, more often found than any other kind and a great favorite with all collectors. . . . The earliest Shelf Clocks were made around 1807, by Willard, famous Roxbury, Mass., clock-maker, and by two others—one at Plymouth, the other at Salem Bridge. Just who is the originator is not quite clear. . . . Shelf Clocks are similar in construction to the "grandfather" 30-hour wood clocks of the period. The difference lies in the pendulum, which beats half-seconds rather than seconds, hence is shorter. The name explains itself. . . . Some of the most cherished collectors' possessions are these old Shelf Clocks, many of them still in perfect running order.

AT YOUR ELBOW DEEP in a story—and the radio states! Over on the other side of the room. . . . The Zenith Armchair Radio fixes all that. Reach over and whirl the dial without lifting your eyes from the page. . . . One model has a small, built-in bar! See it at HILL & HILL, Broadway at Third.

FLASH—SALE AT CHANDLER'S!

IN my shopping about town for interesting shopping events, I stumbled upon a bit of news that is news! Have been hard put to keep it under my hat these last couple of days. . . . Because I've cast a yearning eye at some things at CHANDLER'S, the same as you have—and gazed long and ruefully at the old bank account. . . . But here's our chance. . . . A Clearance Sale!

It's departure from CHANDLER'S policy—but an unexpected break for us. . . . You know, probably, better than I do that Chandler's has always maintained a policy of selling quality merchandise at fair and reasonable prices, thus eliminating the necessity of running sales month after month. They have found that people are better satisfied with high-grade merchandise; that when true quality is found, price is relatively unimportant.

In order, however, to make room quickly for a large incoming stock of merchandise, and to give their customers every benefit of the stock change, CHANDLER'S is launching, on Saturday, July 24, a Clearance Sale that promises to be a real event in the city.

One at Chandler's since April, 1936! And will be the last one for a long while. One short week only, ending on Saturday, July 31. You've probably needed new carpeting for a long time—or have wanted to replace worn scatter rugs with the never-wear wall-to-wall carpet, that gives such an impression of space to a smallish room. . . . Or has the color been scuffed out of your kitchen linoleum? The Clearance Sale is going to embrace every department in the store, and will include floor samples, drapery, carpet and linoleum remnants and odd pieces in general. . . . It is merchandise which has been discontinued in order to make way for new designs, but the intrinsic value and beauty of it is in no way impaired.

Here's the opportunity to "put over" that redecorating scheme we've been cherishing but couldn't quite afford.

ARE WE VIVACIOUS OR ARE WE MICE?

MONDAY Wash-day, Tuesday Dye-day. . . . At least it is at the SANTA ANA UNIVERSITY OF BEAUTY CULTURE, 409 1/2 N. Main. For on Tuesday you may be dyed in the wool for just $1.50, whereas on other days it's $1.50. . . . You have your choice of the widely known Inecto, or the new oil-base Clair, which conditions as it colors. The University has all shades in both dyes. Now, with the never-fading color, the week-end coming up, is the time to take that mousety knot-in-hand. . . . Move it over from the liability to the asset side of the ledger. . . . And while you're at it, better have that manicure. . . . No good being beautiful in spots. . . . Try the new Sun-Rose with covered silks. . . . Rust or Sun-tan for sportswear.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

ACCORDING to Mr. Ripley, of the Temple of Srinagar, in India, has been in a continuous state of fresh paint for over 900 years. The priests of the temple believe the Faith would collapse if they stopped painting. Have you ever felt that your body collapse if some body didn't stop painting? Check! "We want to have the walls painted, but it's such an ordeal. . . . Maybe I'm 'way behind time, but I only just discovered that you can have a paint job completed in one day—move in again that night. With Pittsburgh's Wildlife interior wall paint, that comes in 15 pastel shades. Ask about it at the PITTSBURGH PAINT STORE, 401 West Fourth.

eral complications. It's a "should read" for every thinking citizen.

Of interest to recent graduates—another article in the same issue discusses "The second job"—it's more important than the first. . . . If you like a good yarn about those "who go down to the sea in ships," full of action and spicily told, read Errol Flynn's "Beam Ends"—an account of the author's voyage in a small sailing vessel from Sidney, Australia, to New Guinea. It's not another travel book, but a tale of four lad's adventures, colored by the beauty of coral islands and by the "Captain Blood" personality of the writer.

There's been so much discussion about Social Security Numbers, and speculation, among the lay populace, as to the keeping of books for every employee and employer in the United States—it's time we had some vague idea of how it's done. . . . Before leaving the East, I was given the opportunity to see the accounting set-up for this gigantic task. . . . In Washington, an entire building is given over to the housing of rows upon rows of huge electric accounting machines, which turn out statements and statistics as an automobile plant turns out cars. . . . The machines operate on something of the principle of an electric piano: picking up information from holes punched in cards, computing wages earned and taxes paid, and printing the results on a report—all in one operation! The "punched card," as it is called, is the medium for transferring written information, as it comes from the field offices, to the machines. . . . There are hundreds of girls sitting all day at "Punch" machines, punching data into the cards much as a typist transcribes copy. There is a "master" punched card, containing all identifying information, for every employee and employer in the country. . . . Numbers are used for easier filing, machine manipulation and to prevent duplication. . . . Here endeth the day's lesson!

SUNSET SERVICE

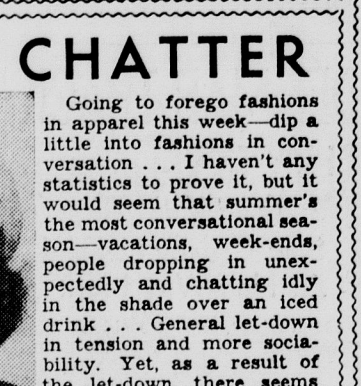

SUNSET CLEANING service DOES not stop with calling for and delivering, and merely cleaning goods. It includes care in the handling of your garment or rug from the moment it leaves your doorstep until it is returned. Care in the handling means the use of the best cleaning materials, by which your rugs and carpets are cleaned flat on the floor by a licensed operator. Call 449 or stop at 904 West Fourth.

CORSET SALE

GOSSEND Corset Sale—at RUTHERFORD'S, 515 East First. It's almost over so you'll have to hurry. . . . There are only two Gossend sales a year, you know—Winter will almost be gone before the next one! Girlies, too, with an eye to the slimmer Fall silhouette. . . . 20% reduction on all of them. While you're in, ask to see the new Blondell bonnets—they'll be the rage.

ART DISPLAY

TAKE a minute this week to see the oils and water colors by Norton Gaston displayed at the FAIRMAR STUDIO, 116 South Sycamore. . . . Marine of the neighboring coast line and desert scenes, in oils, and a delightful collection of fish portraits, in water color, indicative of a rare sense of humor. Mr. Gaston, incidentally, is a local artist. While at the Studio, ask about their work in restoring and refinishing antiques. . . . It's fascinating, even if you have no antiques.

ATTENTION, NURSES!

AND YOU who aren't nurses, but want white shoes that are good for your feet and trim to look at. KRIEGER'S, Fourth and Main, is running a special this week on nurses' shoes. . . . Regularly $3.95, now $2.09. . . . They have a built-in arch, constructed for long hours of standing, and are made of real kid leather. Same shoe in black, with slightly higher heel.

SHOPPERS' LUNCH

WHERE to stop for lunch? It's a problem when your time's limited and appetite jaded by the heat. . . . SONTAG'S Lunch Counter is one of the best bets I've found—it's convenient, quick and offers a choice of eight Chef's Cold Plates and a Luncheon Special. . . . Ranging from 24c to 39c. . . . Assorted cold cuts—baked ham, smoked ox tongue, roast beef, liver sausage, imported Salami, American cheese—with potato salad and pickled beets. . . . Cold sliced breast of Imperial Tom Turkey, with fruit salad and fresh asparagus tips. . . . Cold baked hony cured ham with sliced tomato, potato salad and creamed cole slaw. . . . Avocado stuffed with fresh shrimp a la Louie. . . . Hot rolls or bread and butter and a drink included with these plates. The 29c Luncheon Special includes a choice of sandwiches, choice of pies, sodas or sundaes and a 5c drink. . . . Name your salad dressing—the Health Dressing, made with honey, no artificial sugar, is especially recommended. SONTAG'S maitre d' milks are extra good—three scoops of pure ice-cream topped Grade A milk. . . . And if you are, for any reason, dissatisfied with your order, it may be exchanged for anything else. SONTAG'S, 115 E. Fourth.

DODDER'S DIAMONDS

HAVE you been in DODDER'S new shop at 308 1/2 W. Fourth street, yet? It's one of the most attractive spots in town, decorated with the exquisite taste of your own drawing room. . . . The whole effect is of a blue-white diamond. . . . An inviting spot to spend a few moments just looking around. . . . I spent more than a few moments there this week, admiring the new watches that have just come in. Elgin and Hamilton have outdone themselves this season, particularly in their stone-set models. . . . Diamond watches worthy of a duchess. . . . Lavishly jeweled, yet dainty, reflecting, consciously or unconsciously, the brilliant splendor of a Coronation year. They will be the completing touch to the regal Coronation inspired costumes of the coming fall and winter. And magnificent gifts to be cherished always. . . . For the superiority of Hamilton and Elgin watches has never been challenged. Choose one for that birthday, wedding or anniversary gift that's on your mind—a fine watch is one of the rare things that you can be sure will be treasured, and will live to become an heirloom. . . . Style is no longer dictated. . . . There is a wide choice of Round, Cushion and Rectangular designs, with infinite variations in each. Stop and look at them, even if you've no excuse to buy. . . . They're exciting!

All very fine, but where to get them? There's a new HEALTH FOODS SHOP at 109 E. Sixth—made to order.

Browns' Ousted Manager Threatens Legal Action

HORNSBY HITS
DISMISSALSays Contract Good
Until End of 1938;
Turns Down $5000

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, ousted manager of the St. Louis Browns, studied possible legal action today to enforce his contract through the remainder of the year.

Hornsby and his first assistant, Coach Charlie O'Leary, were dismissed suddenly, and were replaced by "Sunny Jim" Bottomley as manager and Charles (Gabby) Street, former Cardinal and St. Paul manager, as coach.

Hornsby, who had been manager since the middle of the 1933 season, said he turned down a $5000 offer of settlement because he believed his contract should hold good to the end of the 1938 season. Last year he was signed to a two-year contract calling for a salary of $18,000 a year.

Asked if he would appeal to Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, or if he contemplated any legal action, Hornsby said "not until I find out just what the club is going to do about the contract."

"Mr. Barnes (Don Barnes, president of the Browns) offered me $5000 yesterday after he informed me that I was released as manager, but I did not accept anything," he added, "and I'm waiting to learn what the club intends to do."

"It is my belief that my contract is good until the close of the 1938 season, and those I have consulted about it agree on that point."

GARIBALDI VS.
STEINKE

Hans Steinke, the German heavyweight champion, who many still regard as one of the outstanding heavyweights in the world, today was scheduled to meet Gino Garibaldi, Italian champion, in the feature main event at the Orange County Athletic club Monday night.

Garibaldi and Steinke clash in a two-out-of-three-fight affair.

Scarlet Mr. X, who was being considered as Garibaldi's foe, will be given an opportunity to meet Indian Jules Strongbow in the 45-minute semi-final. If he can down the giant "Cherokee choker" he will be given a crack at the winner of the feature the following week.

Other bouts bring out Ignacio Martinez, 230-pound Mexican prizefighter, against Baron Ginsberg, and Al Baffert against Count Von Busing.

DEL MAR TRACK
SUCCESSFULBing Crosby Pleased
At Half-Way Mark

DEL MAR, (AP)—President Bing Crosby of the Del Mar Turf club looked back over the half-way mark of his race track venture today and found it a success.

Opening on July 3 with a crush of spectators, and continuing day by day with better than fair "play," the $1,000,000 "gem of the ocean" has exceeded even the fondest hopes of its backers.

Crosby, taking time off from his motion picture work to personally run the track, expects the latter stages of the meeting to top the first, with a final burst of attention centered on the closing program July 31.

During the first 12 days of Del Mar's inaugural meeting, the pari-mutuel average daily "handle" has been more than $90,000—more than enough to insure financial peace for Crosby and his associates, most of whom hail from Hollywood.

In both ends of a doubleheader, 5-1 and 2-1.

A homer by Ray Mueller with the bases loaded in the 11th inning won the first game for Fette. Then Lanning, matched against Dizzy Dean, whose big toe is healed again, tossed a two-hitter at the Gas House-gang for the nightcap decision.

CBS STRETCH LEAD
The Chicago Cubs, meantime, stretched their National league lead to two full games over the crippled Giants by whipping the Phillies in a twin bill.

A five run rally in the fifth gave the Cincinnati Reds a 6-5 decision over the Giants. George Jeffercoat turned in a four hitter to blank the Pirates for a 6-0 Brooklyn win.

Although Sunny Jim Bottomley was the new manager for the Browns, it was the same old ball club. So the Yankees trimmed them, as usual, 6-3.

Jimmy Foxx smashed out two homers for the second straight day to lead the Red Sox in a 10-3 walloping of the Detroit Tigers. Washington's Senators ended a 12-game win-less run by tapping the White Sox, 7-3. The Cleveland Indians just managed to nose out the Athletics in both ends of a twin bill, 9-8 and 8-7.

Jordan had reached first on an error.

For good measure, the Gene Hittman put on another three-run plurge in the fifth, but managed to get two hits. This time Collins ignited the rally with his second big blow, a triple into left field which rolled up the bank, and placing Rod Smiley and McCain in the scoring column ahead of him.

STEEL FLOORS
RIVAL IN 8THMiddleweight King
Scores Technical

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Freddie Steele, the world's middleweight champion, held a technical knock-out triumph today over one of the roughest battlers he ever fought, Charles (Hobo) Williams of Alexandria, Va.

It took the Tacoma, Wash., ace eight of the scheduled 10 rounds here last night before he could release himself from the clutching arms of the former carnival brawler and fire his big guns. The bout, which did not involve Steele's title, was stopped by Referee Charlie Reynolds after two minutes and 56 seconds of the eighth round.

In the final skirmish Steele knocked Williams down with a terrific right hook to the jaw, but after taking a nine count the Virginian arose. The champion then moved quickly across the ring and felled Williams again with another hard right. The referee halted the match midway of the count, although it appeared Williams would have tried again.

Williams, who had never been knocked off his feet in several years of fighting, was set on the canvas by a stiff left early in the first round. He arose, however, with no count.

STARS DELAY
S. B. GAME'Doc' Smith Granted
Switch to Saturday Night With Ponies

Unable to assemble his full strength for a game tonight, Manager "Doc" Smith was granted a date change by the San Bernardino Ponies, who will play host to Santa Ana's Stars in a National league game at San Bernardino Saturday night.

League games are regularly scheduled for Tuesday and Friday nights, but San Bernardino has held the privilege of playing home games on Thursday to avoid conflict with Friday night wrestling at the Orange show arena.

The Thursday date was unsatisfactory to Smith, several of whose players would be unavailable. "We need our full strength to beat the team," he said.

There will be two attractive games tomorrow night. Huntington Beach's Oilers, back at the top with San Bernardino, come to Westminster for a crack at Francis Penhall's improved Aviators, who upset San Bernardino 5-1 Tuesday night. Anaheim's Valencias, tied with Santa Ana for third spot, play their "jinx" team, Orange, at the Orange city park. Both Friday tussles are billed for 8:15 p. m.

WAR STARTED AGAINST NEW CITRUS BUG

Countywide Survey to Start Under Tubbs

It's war! Along three Southern California fronts, generals armed their troops today with spray guns and other implements of chemical warfare.

And as the challenge was sounded, an invading army of mysterious spider-like creatures nibbled voraciously to entrench themselves in tender twigs, foliage and fruit of citrus trees.

How strong the enemy is was not certain today, but Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs and other agricultural officials are determined to find out. Tubbs was unable to attend a war conference held yesterday in Santa Paula, but he said today that he plans to make a flying trip to that vicinity to join the battle against the bugs.

PLAN COUNTY-WIDE SURVEY
Tubbs plans to make a county-wide survey in Orange county to find out if any of the mysterious mites that have been found in citrus regions around Santa Paula have sent scouting forces down here. He will make this survey after he has visited the main battlegrounds.

The new and unclassified citrus pest has startled and baffled experts in the Santa Paula district. It was discovered by Howard Sheldon, Linoneira ranch official who formerly was an agricultural inspector here. The pest was found in 150 acres of citrus trees. It attacks citrus trees when they are in the bud phase, and it distorts the twigs, foliage and fruit. The attacked fruit is malformed.

At the conference Tubbs was unable to attend yesterday, county, state and federal agricultural officials met to discuss the new pest. The officials agreed to follow the recommendations of a special committee appointed to determine the most practical procedure against the unclassified, spider-like mite.

LAUNCH WIDE ATTACK
These recommendations were: That all orchards in Southern California be surveyed to ascertain whether damage has been done elsewhere.

That the life history and control of the new bug be worked out through the citrus experiment station at Riverside.

That a survey of native plants be handled by the state department of agriculture to determine whether the pest came from a native host or whether it was imported.

Commissioner Tubbs said today that the problem will present more serious aspects if it is found that the pest was imported from some other country. He pointed out that a major part of the serious citrus pests have come here from other countries.

The last major citrus pest discovered was 16 years ago. It was the destructive citrophilus mealy bug, and it cost Orange county millions of dollars.

Labor Troubles Alarm Japanese
TOKYO, (AP)—Strikes and labor disputes are increasing alarmingly in Japan, home office statistics show. In the first five months of this year controversies totaled 1229, as against some 700 for the corresponding period last year.

It is noticeable that in recent labor disputes employers have been more ready than before to make concessions and labor rarely has resorted to violence.

More than 80 per cent of the total represent demands for increase in wages or discharge allowances on the ground of the rise in living costs.

Connecticut's infant mortality rate of 42.1 deaths per 1000 births was the lowest in the U. S. last year. New Mexico's rate of 114.7 was the highest, but showed great improvement over the previous year when the rate was 129.3.

New York Stocks

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, July 22, (AP)—Late profit selling today stemmed a sizable rally in the stock market. There was a morning run up, led by motors and steels, which lifted prices generally fractions to 3 or more points.

Many traders started to cash in after noon and extreme advances were reduced, cancelled or replaced with losses during the final hour.

Early strength was attributed by brokerage observers largely to indications further economic recovery will get into full swing in the near future.

Volume was still somewhat restricted, transfers being around 1,000,000 shares.

GOOD PRICES FOR VALENCIAS

Light sales but high prices marked sales of Valencia oranges during the past month, it was announced today by officials of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

Exchange sales of packed oranges in domestic markets in June were the lightest of any June since 1930. Average prices, however, were higher than in any month since Nov. 1930. But because of the lighter supply, total f.o.b. returns were below those of last year.

The volume was 32 per cent less than last year and returns eight per cent less, although the price per box was 88 cents higher. As compared with a five-year average, the volume was 19 per cent less, the returns were 25 per cent more and the average price $1.21 more.

The Valencia market advanced progressively each week throughout June. The f.o.b. average on exchange packed sales the week ending June 26 was 50 cents per box higher than for the week ending May 29. After July 4 the market came back stronger than at any time this season, and shows indication of continuing strong for the comparatively small quantity of valencias estimated available, the report said.

By July 3 Southern California shippers of valencias had moved 9637 cars into fresh fruit channels, compared with 10,766 cars a year ago. It is estimated that after July 3, 13,115 cars will be shipped as against 22,168 cars last season.

A considerable quantity of fruit, due to the cold weather of last winter, did not have the usual Valencia longevity, and consequently had to be shipped in the early summer or not at all, the exchange declared. Forerates were set with this idea in mind.

The worst groves have been picked and shippers are planning to spread out the balance as evenly as possible in line with supply and demand, bearing in mind that the crop, because of its early maturity and tendency to deteriorate more quickly than that of last year, will have to be moved somewhat earlier than in many other seasons, it was stated.

Whales Defy Ocean Pressure
WASHINGTON, D. C.—(American Wire)—Unlike man and other mammals, whales are immune to illness caused by sudden change from high to low pressure. Divers are often afflicted with the "bends," when nitrogen bubbles form in the blood after coming to the surface too swiftly from a deep dive.

Whales can descend to a depth of 300 feet, stay there 15 minutes, then shoot rapidly to the surface with no trouble, according to a British Colonial office report on biological studies made near South Georgia, an island in the South Atlantic.

Some 50 trumpeter swans were observed on the Yellowstone river in Yellowstone national park last winter. Only a few more than 100 are left in the United States.

6 MORE FIRMS LEASE ANAHEIM OIL LAND

AWAIT RESULT OF SHELL CO. TEST HOLE

New Wildcat Located West of Community

Interest in the Anaheim district oil situation quickened today when it was learned that at least six important operating organizations have moved into the picture.

The Journal learned that six and possibly more operating organizations held protection acreage on two sides of Anaheim and in the vicinity of the new wildcat well, Harbeson No. 1, to be drilled by the Shell Oil company.

COVER 3100 ACRES
The test well will be drilled on Sec. 9, 4-10, Orange county, on a block of leases taken by Hillman-Long, Inc., Los Angeles development firm.

If the Shell Oil company gets production in the new wildcat, it has the privilege of selecting any 500-acre block in Hillman-Long's leases, which cover about 3400 acres of land in the Anaheim district.

SIX SMALLER LEASES
Surrounding the Hillman-Long leases are approximately 500 acres of scattering leases held by the Texas company; George F. Getty, Inc.; Hall-Baker, Inc.; Thomas Kelly & Sons; Union Oil company, and Standard Oil company.

The new wildcat well is located two miles northwest of the well the Shell Oil company drilled on the Perry Mathis property, on Ball road, just off the 101 highway between Santa Ana and Anaheim. The Mathis well was sunk to a depth of 3044, but oil in quantities worth bothering about was not found.

Many Santa Anans are interested in the new venture, being owners of land in the territory where the new test is being made.

Root-Knot Control Method Outlined

Methods of controlling root-knot, a plant disease that has been a serious limiting factor in Orange county in the raising of truck and field crops, were described today by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg.

Wahlberg said that Joeelyn Taylor, former plant expert at the University of California, advocates control by combining various methods. A circular describing the methods is available at the farm advisor's office.

Root-knot is caused by a microscopic nematode worm. Infestations may be started out by cultivating resistant crops in rotation, with careful control of weeds. Control by starvation also may be effected in the field by allowing the field to lie fallow and either flooding it or allowing it to dry out. Complete drying will kill all stages of the root-knot nematode.

S. A. Man, Pal of Barkley, Helped New Senate Leader Get First Political Start

By KENNETH ADAMS

He knew him when . . . Out of the past and right here into The Journal office today came a colorful personal story of how Senator Alben W. Barkley, yesterday named to the important post of Democratic leader of the senate, first was shown into the political arena against his will.

And one of the men responsible for Barkley's entrance into first local and then national politics is Noah Berry, well-known advertising man on The Journal's staff.

The scene shifts back to the year 1912. A group of five men was sitting in the office of the News-Democrat of Paducah, Ky. The News-Democrat, leading Democrat newspaper of the district, was published by Noah Berry and his brother, J. J. Berry.

Politics being the hottest subject on tap, the Southern Democrats discussed the subject as to who should run to oppose the incumbent county judge, Judge Patterson, who seemed firmly entrenched. But the News-Democrat and five citizens decided the old-line political machine could be smashed. And they chose Alben W. Barkley, Paducah lawyer, as the man to put out in front.

Barkley didn't know about that until the next morning, when they told him he was a candidate for county judge. He protested, but it didn't do him any good. He said he didn't have time; that he had to make a living and couldn't be messing around with politics. But he ran, and was elected by a big majority.

Berry recalls that Barkley, a man he knew for 10 years, even then had a wonderful gift of gab. He was an old Southern orator, whose words sparkled with wit and still were filled with profound logic.

Barkley, Berry recalls, had to make his campaign afoot when he ran for county judge. He trudged from house to house, his supporters growing with every visit. In sharp contrast, his opponent, Judge Patterson, rode majestically about the countryside, driving a fine horse and buggy, with shining silver gear.

MADE GREAT REPUTATION
The News-Democrat was given credit for electing Barkley, as the paper gave him whole-hearted support. Barkley made a great reputation as county judge, Berry recalls, and later was given the opportunity to run for congress. He ran and won, and represented the Kentucky district in congress for about nine terms.

Then he was elected to the senate of the United States. Now he is a colorful national figure. But he wouldn't have been, had not that group of five men met that night in a Paducah newspaper office and pointed the finger of politics at Alben W. Barkley—now leader of the nation's Democratic forces in the senate and President Roosevelt's right-hand man.

EXPLAINS NEW LEGISLATION ON INSURANCE

Samuel Carpenter Talks to Large Crowd

One of the largest groups of underwriters assembled here in recent years turned out yesterday noon at the Green Cal cafe to greet State Insurance Commissioner Samuel L. Carpenter, Jr., who was principal speaker on the program sponsored by the Orange County Life Underwriters association.

Paul W. Neff, vice president of the Underwriters association, presided in the absence of President W. B. Moore, Jr., extending a sincere welcome to members of the Insurance Exchange of Orange County who were special guests, and presenting Assemblyman Clyde Watson of Orange and City Auditor Lloyd Banks of Santa Ana, both of whom spoke briefly.

Mayor Fred C. Rowland of Santa Ana was program chairman for the day and in addition to introducing the honored guest and speaker of the day, extended an official welcome to underwriters from outside of Santa Ana.

REVIEWS 1937 LAWS
Commissioner Carpenter reviewed the accomplishments of the 1937 legislature as it affected underwriters.

He also revealed that the new laws require all members of a mutual benefit association to be on an equal basis of assessment and that a minor child's parents or guardian are included in liability for assessment. He stated that the commissioner may now stop the writing of any insurance when less than 25 per cent of the company's assets are not in cash, government bonds, or listed stocks and bonds, which he explained rules out mortgages or worthless real estate. The commissioner also has power to remove men or close the company's operations where the officers have been convicted of a felony, such as using the mails to defraud. The commissioner also has power now to revoke the license of both the agent and his company for misrepresentation.

AUTO VICTIM FILES APPEAL

Appeal from an Orange justice court decision for $34.58 against the plaintiff in an auto accident damage suit, had been filed today in superior court by Nelle Foster.

Justice Cal Lester awarded E. H. Peters, defendant, that sum on a cross-complaint after Mrs. Pister had sued for $105.57 for damages in an accident in Orange last March 8.

Long Beach Tax Raise Opposed

LONG BEACH, (AP)—In a move to forestall the proposed 9-cent increase in the city tax rate here, the "Taxpayers Consumers' council and the Apartment Owners' association prepared today to circulate referendum petitions designed to prevent enactment of the legislation.

The groups joined last night in passing the motion for a referendum after the city council had taken the first steps toward adoption of the 1937-38 budget, which calls for the tax increase.

New Oil Field Discovery Told

BAKERSFIELD, (AP)—Oil scouts in this area expressed the opinion today the report of 31 feet of oil bearing sand in the Union Oil Co. wildcat well three miles south of Shafter might indicate the discovery of another production area in Kern county. The well has been drilled to 10,300 feet.

FLOOD BONDS OFFER GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Leaders Stress Savings To County in Project

Opportunity to solve Orange county's flood control and water conservation problems for all time will never come again in a form so financially advantageous to local taxpayers.

This important fact was stressed today in a joint statement issued by Chairman A. J. McFadden of the Orange County flood control campaign committee and Everett A. White, chairman of the Santa Ana unit of the campaign committee.

It was held significant that both McFadden and White battled against the bonds at the last election and that both now are working day and night to put over the water bond issue set for next Tuesday, July 27. White was director of organization for the group that opposed the water bonds at the last two elections.

"A BETTER DEAL"
"In past bond elections," the statement said, "a great many voters opposed the proposition on the grounds that if we would wait, and defeat carrying of the bonds at that time, in the future we could get a better deal. That time has come, and that 'better deal' now is offered us by the government."

"While it might have been true in past flood control bond elections that we might expect a better deal, this absolutely is not true regarding the election set for next Tuesday, July 27. The government provides all of the money for purchase of material and for labor. According to Congressman Harry R. Sheppard, the government will never do more than this."

"Therefore, in the future there never will be any possibility for construction of flood control dams at a better bargain than now is offered voters of Orange county. So do not fool yourselves by thinking if you vote 'no' you will have the opportunity again in the future to get the same deal at a better bargain. On the contrary, every possibility is that if voters turn down this water bond issue, it will be necessary to build the flood control works at a cost of many millions of dollars more to local taxpayers."

IMPORTANT TO VOTE
In no case does the government ever take on the purchase of lands for rights-of-way and purchase of damage rights. The area getting all the benefits must do this. We must approve the $2,500,000 water bond issue to show good faith with the government, and to pay our share of the expenses, which amount to but one-fifth of the total cost. The government will spend $12,748,000 to build eight dams for us. Shall we accept this offer?"

SAFE TRAFFIC UP TO DRIVER, SAYS SENATOR

Scores Reckless Driving in Radio Talk

Traffic safety is not entirely a problem of law.

This thought was stressed last night by Senator Harry C. Westover, Santa Ana, in a talk he made over radio station KECA, Los Angeles, last night under sponsorship of the California Safety Council.

"Engineers and traffic experts have been doing their part," Westover said, "but they themselves cannot solve the problem. The problem must be solved by the people who use the highways."

"Generally, the problem of traffic safety has not been brought home to users of the highways. They consider the problem from an impersonal viewpoint. As long as it is the other person who is injured, many people do not seem to care. But when it comes to death or injury to one's own son or daughter or some other loved one, then it becomes a very personal matter and a demand is made for some solution of the problem."

The speaker emphasized that alcohol and gasoline do not mix upon the highway. If people wish to drink, he said, they must not drive an automobile on the highway. A drunken automobile driver, he declared, is as dangerous as a drunken person who would stand upon a business corner of the city with a loaded shot gun.

To help solve the problem, he said, we must weed out those who because of some disability are physically handicapped in the driving of an automobile. Extremely young persons should not be allowed to drive, he declared, because youth has a tendency to be impetuous and reckless. Another class which must be eliminated, he said, includes the irresponsible and reckless driver. He said 90 per cent of the accidents could be avoided, and that 90 per cent of the accidents are caused by 10 per cent of the drivers.

"If the courts would fairly and impartially apply the law and give notice that traffic violators would receive severe punishment, the accident rate would materially decrease," he said.

Teague's drive off the 14th tee split the fairway, but neither he nor other members of the foursome could find the ball.

What More Can We Ask—

than the exceptional bargain offered Orange county by the United States government for Flood Control?

● A $15,248,000 flood control and water conservation program at an investment of only $2,500,000 by Orange county.

● Eight great flood control reservoirs and allied conservation works with Orange county investing but one-sixth of the cost and getting all of the benefit.

● Flood protection for all time at a cost lower than ever before dreamed possible.

● Property values will be enhanced. Men will be put to work. Business will hum at an accelerated pace.

UNITED AT LAST!

Orange county citizens who have disagreed in the past over water programs, now are presenting a solid front on the new water project. In the central parts of the county they realize that with a comprehensive flood control program will come more attention to local water problems, enhanced property values and assurance of business prosperity founded on agricultural prosperity.

Election July 27, 1937

WE MUST VOTE overwhelmingly in support of the water bonds to make certain government funds are allotted to us and not lost to us by transfer to projects in other parts of the nation. We must convince U. S. Army engineers and officials at Washington, D. C., that Orange county is aware of its need for government help for flood control, and wants that help now!

Crystal Ware Is Showered On Bride

Mrs. W. F. Croddy Is Co-Hostess With Mrs. R. R. Low

Because the quietness of her marriage to Merton Butler in June precluded the usual flurry of pre-nuptial events, the former Miss Tessie Childers has been incentive for several lovely affairs now that she has returned from her honeymoon and is settled in her Santa Ana ranch home.

Most elaborate of these was the luncheon given yesterday in her honor by Mrs. William F. Croddy and Mrs. Robert R. Low, who chose Dangers' tearoom as setting for their pretty party. A bride-like motif of white was relieved by touches of soft shell pink, on wedding-bell tallies, and in the delicate gossamer that were placed alternately with white tapers down the long luncheon table.

The two hostesses received their guests in pretty pastel summer afternoon dresses, and both they and Mrs. Butler wore fragrant gardenia corsages sent them by Mr. Butler.

Late in the afternoon an array of beautiful crystal gifts was presented the bride, virtually completing the pattern she had chosen earlier in the week. At the same time, prizes in the same pretty ware were awarded Mrs. Henry Williams, high, and Mrs. Harry LeBar, second.

Guests of the hostess-duo were the Mesdames Roy Allen of Los Angeles, Jack Bascom, Veda Ball of Laguna, Lydia Crawford, Fred Elliott, G. H. Erickson of Long Beach, Warren Fletcher of Corona del Mar, John Galbraith of Yuma, Ralph Gordon of Oakland, C. W. Hyde, Jr.

The Mesdames Robert Jeffries, George Kohlenberger, Harry LeBar, Arnold Lund, Ralph Livingston of Long Beach, Lawrence Minge of Los Angeles, Boyd Munger, Henry McGovern of Monrovia, Clarence McFadden of San Juan Capistrano.

The Mesdames Lyle Mitchell, Gerald Oliver, Richard Parker, Jack Patmore, Sheldon Russell, Carl Sanborn, E. M. Sundquist, Fanny Steel, Ferris Scott, Carson Smith, C. P. Wright, Dorsey Davis, Milan Miller, Henry Williams, Chester Stafford of Hollywood and William Cheverton of Whittier.

The Misses Lota Blythe, Frances Egge, Dorothy Forgy, Lucinda Griffith, Reva Hawkins, Genevieve Humiston, Helen Kirkland, Frances Larabee, Marian Libby, Helen Glancy, Betty Parslow of Los Angeles, Grace Robertson, Eleanor Ralston, Mary Safley and Loretta Spangler.

QUINTET ENJOYS LUNCHEON AT PUENTE RANCH

The lovely canyon drive through the hills that lead to the Charles Lewis ranch home at Puente was greatly enjoyed by a group of Santa Anans who were hostessed informally at luncheon there Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Lewis, frequently a guest at smart local affairs.

Her guests included Mrs. James Irvine, Mrs. Paul Dinsmore, Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth, Mrs. Mortimer Plum, and Mrs. Baldwin Wood, visiting here from San Francisco.

Practicality And Beauty Go Together

By DR. MARY E. WRIGHT

Whittling tiny figurines from match sticks—jaunty Mexican chorros, poised dancing girls, and little animals—was just the time-whittling task of a young Mexican several years ago when he was working in the orchards of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sharpless. But when Mrs. Sharpless happened by and saw the clever little models, mounted on the miniature works of tiny glass vials, she gave so much encouragement to the young artist that now Louis Parga is working under the N. Y. A. youth movement at Fremont summer school, teaching the boys and girls of his own nationality how to make lovely things out of wood.

He is very proud of being a Mexican, and has the features and manners of a man of education and culture, although entirely untrained in his art. A married man with five youngsters, he is ambitious to get ahead in his recently-developed profession, as well as to educate his pupils in the artistic line.

I glimpsed many beautiful objects when visiting his classes recently, and could not resist letting the public know what beautiful things are being accomplished in the summer school.

Among the pretentious pieces is a typical Spanish house with balcony, fountain, and background of green hills, for he has learned to augment his carving by skillful use of the brush and water-colors. There are many striking plaques of Mexican scenes, miniature statues of lifelike figures, beautiful floral carvings, and household ornaments such as book-covers. Mr. Parga draws all of his own designs, and uses red or white pine as his medium.

One of his pupils was carving a forceful plaque of an Aztec Indian head with the clearcut features of a beautiful cameo. Others were making ash trays, spoon holders, and many things both ornamental and utilitarian.

Def fingers fashioning things of use and beauty, moulding characters that appreciate and retain appreciation of fine art, are worth knowing about, and encouraging in these days of practicality and machinery!

JUNGLE PRINTS FOR EMPHASIS

Brilliant flowers of the jungle inspire the red, green and blue design which patterns this white linen summer coat. Lelong makes it to wear over a dark blue frock and finishes it with red and blue linen pippings.

Inferiority Complex May Cause Real Sickness; Should Be Corrected

That dread inferiority complex—it is indeed a curse, because it thwarts personalities and, if no effort is made to overcome it, can wreck lives.

Self-consciousness is the cause of much mental misery and, as mental and physical health are closely interwoven, it is possible that the agony of shyness may have bad effects upon the body itself.

Several letters are at hand which ask for help as to how to beat this bugaboo. The following letter from an older sister, who recognizes the tragedy which may grow out of her younger sister's lack of confidence in herself, illustrates one phase of this complex.

Dear Miss Stoddard: For some time I've wanted to write you a serious problem. It concerns my sister, a lovely girl of 21, who is obsessed with a bad inferiority complex which hinders her at every turn. Because of a sheltered and protected life, she seems younger than her age. Due to the fact that she's been dominated all her life by our well-meaning father, she's unable to make her own decisions or live her own life. In short, she doesn't know how to use her own mind because she's never had to do so.

In her second year of high school she quit. I did everything possible to prevent this, but failed. She needs that education badly. She has great possibilities and I want so badly to help her to develop her own personality.

She's engaged to marry a boy whom she's not sure she loves. It is causing a great deal of doubt and unhappiness in her mind. I've begged her to give him up, but she thinks boys are attracted to her and that she'll not find another friend. This idea is most foolish as her appearance could not be unattractive to anyone. She works with a group of girls younger than she and with whom she has nothing in common, in a place where there is no opportunity to meet people. I know that she needs to become vitally interested in something and that she must study somehow and somewhere to improve in every way she can. Can you tell me how to go about it? She earns her own money, a modest amount, but it is all clear as she lives at home and pays nothing. She can spend this in whatever way she pleases. I've thought of a business course, but don't know what she'd do with it. She thought of taking singing lessons, but was discouraged upon having her voice tested.

She needs to get into a group of young people of her own age and station in life. She must grow up mentally and emotionally. But how, Miss Stoddard? I know there are many ways and means available, but don't know just what they are or how to find them. We've lived only a short time so don't know all these things. I, myself, am also most interested in self-improvement. I am sincere when I say that I am grateful because if it weren't for you I should have no one to whom to go with this problem of mine.

A SISTER.

Self-consciousness or inferiority complex is caused through fear. The cure is found in courage and self-reliance. The condition must be fought tooth and nail, and it must be fought in youth. The young person suffering from this complex is likely to develop a neurosis in middle age. The self-conscious person banks up memories of stupid acts, embarrassing moments; time does not make matters better. Life, then, is largely a business of self-rebuking.

The chances are that the trouble is largely one of imagination. The self-conscious girl should force herself to form social contacts. If she dreams of going to a party she should go—and with the determination to enjoy herself and to enter into the social spirit of the occasion.

Hostess Has Twelve At Party Fetes Mrs. Scripps

Mrs. Russell Sullivan (Charlotte Harnois) launched the first of two pretty summer parties yesterday afternoon when she entertained a group of friends at a desert bridge. Her home at 403 Grant street was setting for the affair, which will be followed by another next week.

Coolness and vivid colors characterized the party, for the hostess set her tables with attractive bright matings and multi-hued bubble bowls of colorful zinnias. Bright-colored tallies completed the effect, and prizes were similarly reminiscent of summer, two lovely sand-wich trays for first and second high, and a little bread-basket for consolation. These were won by Mrs. Herbert Stroschein, Mrs. Fenton Deane, and Mrs. Hubert Gohres. Guests of Mrs. Sullivan were Mrs. Ronald Crookshank, Mrs. William Fitcher, Mrs. Carl Larson, Mrs. Hubert Gohres, Mrs. Herbert Stroschein, Mrs. Arthur Wade, Mrs. Raymond Terry, Mrs. Stanley Norton, Miss Eva Dean Caskey, Mrs. Quentin Matzen, Mrs. Fenton Deane, and Mrs. Raymond Smith.

CLUB LUNCHEON AT HILL HOME

Substituting two guests in her regular bridge club, Mrs. Herbert Hill yesterday afternoon entertained the membership at luncheon and contract. Her home at 202 Irving street was filled with vivid-hued pom-pom zinnias, given her by Mrs. George Dunton.

Special guests of Mrs. Hill were Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Jr., and Mrs. Edward Sugden, who has just recently moved to San Bernardino and was a Santa Ana visitor yesterday.

Others in her club were Mrs. Woodrow Barnett, Mrs. Roy Grist, Mrs. Paul Hales, Mrs. George Preble and Mrs. Ralph Adams.

What might be termed the christening of her lovely new home on Heliotrope Drive in which she has so recently been settled occurred yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Edgar F. Elfstrom complimented Mrs. John P. Scripps at an intimate little luncheon party. The affair, first of many which will doubtless be inspired by the hospitality and friendliness which characterize the pretty new house, was attended by sixteen guests.

Delicate tones of pink and blue were used by the hostess to carry out the theme of the afternoon, with lovely rosebuds and delphinium centered each of the luncheon tables, which were further decorated with miniature perambulators as nut-cups, and cunning baby-dolls fashioned by Mrs. Elfstrom. On the dining-room table was a larger potpourri carriage filled with the same delicate blossoms and rosebuds, with pink and blue satin ribbons extending to four jaunty storks perched at each corner.

Highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of a beautiful basinet, the gift of Mrs. Elfstrom, to Mrs. Scripps. In it were many other daintily wrapped gifts brought by the guests.

Awards for scores at contract late in the afternoon went to Mrs. Edward Hall and Mrs. Chester Horton. Others attending the party were Mrs. Fred Hauser of Alhambra, Mrs. Joseph F. Jones and Mrs. Ronald Stever of San Marino, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, Mrs. Wilbur Barr, Mrs. Henry Armstrong of Panama, Mrs. Ray Tarr, Mrs. Thomas Rhom of Orange, Mrs. Lyman Farwell, Miss Virginia Seamon, Mrs. Braden Finch, Mrs. Alvin Stauffer, Mrs. Chad Harwood, and Mrs. Harry Green, who is Mrs. Scripps' house guest this week from Ventura.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ellington of Costa Mesa, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wiedmeier of Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Elbridge of Corona Del Mar, and Mr. and Mrs. George Randall of Santa Ana.

Garden Secrets

By WILLIS CADWALLADER Bland Nursery

"A lark sits singing in the hedge." —Dunbar.

The popularity of garden privacy is increasing. This is gained by the use of fences of different material, or by the use of hedges. Whereas it may take several months for the hedge to become effective, it is not only much cheaper in construction, but it makes a better appearance and is more natural.

Necessarily there are many types of hedges—the thorny hedge for exclusion, the low bordering hedge for partitions, boundary hedges of almost any size, tall background hedges, formal and patterned hedges, and hedges for windbreaks—each to serve a definite purpose of usefulness or of embellishment.

If the hedge expense becomes too monotonous, it may be broken up at regular intervals by pillars of stone or concrete or of any harmonious material.

In fencing out dogs, etc., a wire netting one and a half to two feet high may be stretched immediately after the hedge is planted. As the hedge material grows, the netting will be completely enveloped and will never be noticed.

In planting, the first point to remember is that low branching is desired, and this may be facilitated by planting a little deeper than in the nursery row, and by clipping severely.

Such material as boxwoods and privets may be planted as close as one foot. Monterey cypress, Arizona cypress, etc., should be about three feet apart. Eucalyptus windbreaks may be four or five feet apart.

Throughout the growing season the hedge should be trimmed at intervals of two or three weeks. This prevents large stubs and maintains a certain velvety appearance.

To keep a vigorous growth, the hedge needs cultivation and a good application of fertilizer each year. The hedge is too often neglected in this matter.

The most common hedge material used in Southern California for formal arrangements are Japanese privet, Japanese boxwood and Monterey cypress. The boxwood is used where a small hedge is desired, since it is possible to keep it only eight inches high. The privet, Japanese boxwood and frequently kept at an 18 to 24 inch size.

Sometimes hedges are planted for the flowering effect, and in this case abellias, cotoneasters, flowering quince, hibiscus, hydrangea, camellias, bridal wreath, lilac, viburnum, etc., are used with splendid results.

CHAPTER XXXIV

WHEN Chantilly returned to his office from his interview with the members of the board of Northcutt Construction, he summoned Vern Powers.

"Powers," he said, without preamble, "you're through here—finished! Get your pay from the cashier."

Vern went limp, then tried to bluster.

"You can't get away with this! Have you forgotten those letters?" "They are in my possession," said Chantilly. "Or were they taken from your apartment after I gave them to Northcutt, who brought them to me. And now you will oblige me by leaving at once!"

As Vern left Chantilly's office, he was shaking with anger. This was Mardell's work! He was sure of it!

Well, she needn't think it would do her any good! She had saved Dale from financial ruin, but he'd show her! A fat chance she'd have of marrying Dale when he got through telling all he knew!

He'd go to the National offices now—tell Blount the whole story of that bond business. Time that dumb little Patty Lou was cleared, anyway. Yeah, and he'd tell Dale how Mardell had framed Patty Lou. That would fix her!

When Vern reached the National offices, Alice Carr met him. "Did you want to see Mardell?" she asked sweetly. "She's still out at lunch—with Bob Patterson."

"No!" Vern roared. "I came to see Blount!" "I thought so," Alice smiled mysteriously.

She linked her arm in Vern's and led him triumphantly into Mr. Blount's office.

TWO hours later, Mardell was closeted with Alice and Mr. Blount, battling to save herself.

"Vern lied, I tell you! I did change the figures—but not for a bribe. I did it for the company! I knew that Solid was going to squeeze Northcutt, that that bond was a bad risk. The Home Office would have closed this branch if we had taken a loss like that. I tried to save the branch, and this—this is the thanks I get!"

Ironically enough the very day before, a man from the Home Office had called upon Mr. Blount.

Mary Cash Is Honor Guest At Party

Complimenting their sister-in-law and cousin, Miss Mary Cash, whose wedding will be an event of early fall, Mrs. Sam Cash and Mrs. Henry Williams entertained three dozen guests last evening at the home of the former, 1114 West Pine street.

Lovely white flowers of all sorts decorated the room in which the family group enjoyed an evening of cards and later had the pleasure of watching the bride-elect open an assortment of beautiful miscellaneous gifts presented to her in a cedar chest.

After the awarding of prizes to Mrs. Frank Wharton, Mrs. Will McBurney and Miss Winifred Brown, all of whom received pretty white wrought-iron flower containers, the evening was concluded with refreshments served buffet style. The dining room table was effectively decorated with a long low automobile model, in which were seated painted figures of the bride and groom-to-be, all togged out for their honeymoon. Flowers and white tapers completed the attractive table ensemble from which the two hostesses served.

AUXILIARY HAS BUSINESS SESSION

For a bi-weekly business session, members of Calumet auxiliary met Tuesday evening in the Knights of Columbus hall with Mrs. Jean H. Tantlinger, the president, conducting the meeting.

Plans were made for a steak bake and pot-luck supper in Jack Fisher park to be held at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. The committee will serve dessert to the group. Arrangements were completed for the anniversary meeting of the auxiliary to be celebrated jointly with the Calumet camp on August 3.

An invitation was received from the Roosevelt camp No. 9 of Los Angeles to attend a reception in the Patriotic hall, Los Angeles, Aug. 9 in honor of Clifford Judd, department adjutant, and A. C. Munson, department chief of staff. Mrs. Florence Winders, department reporter of Huntington Park, was a guest at the meeting.

DENVER TRIO VISITS HERE

Mrs. J. C. Hart and Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Andrews, all of Denver, Colo., have been guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Pennington, 510 East Myrtle street, recently. They are now touring northern California before returning to their homes.

Miss Nadene Pennington was accompanied by her parents and her sister Wanda in a vacation at Mt. Baldy this week. She will return to her work at a local bakery Monday.

PHOENIX GIRLS GUESTS HERE

Miss Maurine Waters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Waters of South Broadway, has as her house guests for the next two weeks Miss Mary Jane Secher and Miss Marjorie Secher of Phoenix, Ariz.

The group of sub-debs was augmented over the week-end by Miss Cecile Cartwright of the Irvine ranch.

and complimented him upon not writing the Northcutt bond, which looked like a big loss now. The branch would be given another year in which to prove its worth, he had said.

Mr. Blount now smiled grimly. "This seem to happen just right—for you, Luck, I guess. You really did save the branch. We get another year."

"How wonderful!" Mardell's face lit up. "Then you do appreciate my actions?"

Mr. Blount interrupted. "But this time, Mardell, your luck won't help. I can't understand how a girl like you could have done the things you did to Patty Lou. But we won't discuss it. You are dismissed, of course."

"You mean I—Why—You can't voice rose to a shriek."

"Don't prolong this, I'm sending word by Alice to Patty Lou to come and take your place. I have asked Alice to fill Chet's position."

"And I've consented!" Alice, whose back had been turned, whirled to face Mardell. "And you needn't blame Vern for what's happened. Blame me! The day Chet died, I swore I'd find out the truth! I knew it couldn't be Patty Lou. Well, I did find out the truth!"

"Why, you fool!" Mardell flared. "I'll—I'll—"

Mr. Blount interrupted. "That will do, Mardell. He opened the door."

MARDELL flung out, went to her desk, knocked the telephone over and sent the ink bottle spinning after it. She kicked the wastebasket over, and sent papers whirling.

Bub, round-eyed and breathless, rushed about trying to undo the damage, as Mardell jammed on her hat and grabbed her purse. "Gosh," she muttered. "Gosh, is she mad!"

Mardell stormed out, and down the hall, leaving a trail of ugly words behind her. She happened to get the inequitable elevator girl's car.

"Some people have all the luck," remarked that young lady. "Three hours for lunch, and now, going home at this hour!"

"Shut up!" screamed Mardell. The girl obeyed, blinking.

Industries Now Have Own Clinics

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M. D.

"The efficiency of any plant must be measured in terms of health," says a brochure issued recently by a large industrial concern. Consequently, most of our large commercial interests today are equipped with a medical department.

These company clinics deal largely with minor or temporary illnesses.

The most important of these diseases are heat cramps, common among those who must work in excessive heat, like glass moulders, boiler makers, and the like. Heat cramps are very general, bringing abdominal distress, contraction of the muscles, with a rapid heart and marked paleness. Usually workers in great heat drink a great deal of water and perspire very freely. An excessive amount of salt is lost from the system through the perspiration and if the water they drink is very cold, the stomach pain is likely to occur.

The remedy is evident—giving of saline water at frequent intervals while the patient is kept in a cool place. Most concerns now are providing only cool, not cold, water with salt tablets available.

The truly occupational cramp is concerned with a muscle or group of muscles that are subjected to excessive use in one's daily round of work. These cramps may be produced by an awkward position at work, by faulty surroundings, by actual injury. Or they may be the inevitable accompaniment of sustained labor when the patient is already worn with worry, nervousness, or general ill health. In either case, the condition in itself is a neurosis and calls for treatment that many cannot afford, such as rest, change of scenery or occupation. Mere sedatives do not do much good but something can be done by general treatment.

Cool Color Schemes With Slip Covers

Make This One Yourself!

Does your living-room look hot and stuffy—your sofa anything but inviting—these warm days? Easy-to-make slip covers are the inexpensive answer.

Refreshing as a sea breeze is this cover of light green crash with the seams bound in sage green, the back plackets laced smartly with tape or cord of the darker shade. Or you may prefer an off-white set off by midnight blue. Or a beige with terra cotta.

To make your cover, smooth your material neatly over the upholstery. Pin down every three inches—first the inside back, then the seat, sides, front and outside back. Cut 1 1/2 inches outside the pins and seams. The fronts of the arms and the cushions you fit and cut last. Then baste, try on, stitch, bind seams.

Our 32-page booklet gives step-by-step instructions and diagrams easy to follow for all types of sofas and chairs. Automobile seats. Trimmings. Year-round styles.

Send 10 cents for your copy of How to Make Slip Covers to The Santa Ana Journal Home Service, 117 East Fifth street. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Six Hundred Guests At Wedding

Six hundred guests from all over Southern California witnessed impressive rites yesterday morning at 11 o'clock which united members of two prominent Southland families, Miss Kathleen Patricia Neagle, daughter of Mrs. William Neagle and the late William Neagle of Santa Barbara, and John Vincent Borchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Borchard of Santa Ana.

The beautiful church of Our Lady of Sorrows, in Santa Barbara, was setting for the ceremony, a nuptial high mass performed by the Rev. Father E. Dale Maginnis, S. J. Masses of exquisite white flowers were banked from the vestibule to the vaulted altar before which the handsome couple pronounced their vows. A vested choir chanted the Mass in Latin, and the organ played the wedding march. Through-out the ceremony, and Mr. Henry Hemmers sang the ever-beautiful Gounod's Ave Maria during the Offertory, while the voices of Mrs. Charles Bradbury Baird, Miss Sophie Zemedra and Mr. Michael Egan were heard in other solos during the mass.

STRIKING COSTUMES

The lovely bride, a graduate of Immaculate Heart college, was gown in white chastity lace made redingote style over pleated satin. A floor length veil was caught with a Juliet cap of seed-pearls, and she carried a white mother of pearl prayer book, with satin streamers, white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her costume was completed by the exquisite strand of pearls that was the gift of the bridegroom.

The wedding party, composed of maid of honor and six bridesmaids, was gown in white, dusty pink. Miss Angela Neagle, as maid of honor, wore a gown of lace over tulle, and carried a lace of pink roses.

The other pretty attendants, Miss Eugenie Borchard, Miss Margaret Neagle, Miss Elmer Sherer, Mrs. Frank Marion Kirk, Miss Katherine Clark, and Miss June Vance were frocked in dusty pink French tulle over tulle, with large pink picture hats of spun-glass and velvet streamers. Their bouquets were fashioned of pink gladioli, pale blue delphinium, and roses.

Mr. Borchard was attended by Arthur Cadman Wakefield of Santa Ana, and ushers were Milton Strickard, Alfred Borchard, Edward Borchard, and Carl Hageman. Miss Neagle was given in marriage by her cousin, Howard Andrew McKay of San Diego.

TWO RECEPTIONS

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to 125 guests at the Monterey country club, and last evening, a formal reception for the entire 600 guests was held at the clubhouse, followed by dancing to a full orchestra.

Officiating at the 85-pound tiered wedding cake and in the receiving line were Mrs. Antone Borchard, beautifully gown in grey lace and crepe, with a silver grey picture hat and accessories, and wearing an orchid corsage, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Neagle, wearing black and white marquisette with a black tulle picture hat and orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Borchard will make their home in Santa Ana, where he is a well-known rancher. Mrs. Borchard was a member of Delta Chi Phi sorority at college.

or homey atmosphere to the room.

Mr. Duggan has made many experiments with color in decorating. His little thought were given to the selection and arrangement of the furniture, and the color scheme to be carried out.

Mr. Duggan, 32, handsome, and a bachelor, is rated one of the foremost architects and decorators south of the equator. He studied in London and became an associate of the Royal Institute of British Architects. Besides this he is a member of one of the families of cattle barons in Argentina, cousin to Lady Curzon, and also to the late playing Duggans who have at various times made the Argentine team such a menace at Meadowbrook.

"One of the first things to keep in mind if you are trying to bring a new note into your apartment," he said, "is to do away with the clutter. The interesting young decorator, if you aren't directly using. Superfluous pieces clutter up a place and ruin the appearance. Next, have your furniture as simple as possible. Preferably modern."

Mr. Duggan is a devotee to modern, or as he says urbane field of architecture and decoration. "Pieces should be plain, useful, and graceful," he continued. "They should be placed where they are most convenient, and they will almost invariably give a 'lived in' screen."

Mothers-In-Law Form Club For Joke 'Protection'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Five Texas mothers-in-law bade their jibed-at sisters throughout the nation today to become members of the incorporated "National Association of Mothers-in-Law Clubs," but Gene Howe wasn't on hand to cheer them.

Howe, editor-philosopher of an Amarillo newspaper, has been saying nice things about mothers-in-law since 1934. That year he made the country mother-in-law conscious by launching an annual celebration to honor all such relatives in penance for the jokes he printed at the expense of his wife's mother, Mrs. Nellie Donald.

Yesterday Mrs. Donald and four colleagues were granted a charter for a corporation under Texas laws, designed to "preserve the American home."

This was taking place while Editor Howe was visiting his mother in Westport, Conn., according to Amarillo sources. Incorporators with Mrs. Donald were Mrs. Melissa Griggs, Mrs. Lee Anna Thompson, Mrs. Sadie Curtis and Mrs. Willie Griggs. They will be directors.

They and hundreds of other mothers-in-laws have gathered in Amarillo annually since. Howe's first efforts to make amends in 1934. Such to-do was made over their celebration that Governor James V. Alfred officially urged the whole state to pay them homage.

Apricots Ready To Be Canned

As we stated the other day, the canning season for apricots is a short one, so we are offering apricot recipes today. Apricots develop such a grand flavor after they are cooked that they appeal to most of us. They make a nice looking product when they are canned whole, with their skins on, and they have a grand flavor when they are prepared as jam, so get out your canning kettle and jars and preserve some for the coming winter.

PICKLED APRICOTS

Ten to 12 pounds of apricots, 2 tablespoons whole cloves, 2 tablespoons whole allspice, 1 stick cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cayenne, 1/4 teaspoon celery seed, 12 cups sugar, 1 quart cider vinegar. Select firm, rather small apricots; wash and drain well. Tie add all spices and bring to boil; add in a bag. Combine sugar and vinegar in large preserving kettle; add all spices and bring to boil; add 10 to 12 apricots at a time; cook until tender, 3 to 5 minutes. Remove fruit and place in hot sterilized pint fruit jars; fill jars with hot syrup, seal at once. Makes about 10 pints.

Six pounds washed and pitted apricots, 7 pounds sugar, 1 large can sliced pineapple.

Put apricots through a food chopper with a coarse blade, put on the stove and bring to boil. Add the sugar and stir well. Let it come to a boil again and add the pineapple slices which have been put through the chopper and well drained. Let boil for 5 minutes. Seal hot.

One housewife I know blanches a pound of almonds, splits them, and adds them to the mixture when she adds the pineapple. They make a delicious difference.

APRICOTS (AK COOKED)

Apricots are generally canned with skins on. Clean them. Pack them closely in hot jars and fill with a syrup made with 1 part sugar to 2 parts water. Partly seal and process in a hot water bath for 20 minutes. Remove from kettle and seal at once.

APRICOT CONSERVE

Three oranges, 6 apricot pits, 1 pound blanched almonds, 5 pounds apricots, 10 cups sugar. Wash and peel oranges, cover peel with cold water; bring to boil and boil 3 or 4 minutes; repeat this process twice, pouring off and discarding water in which orange peel is boiled. Scrape white pulp from the orange peel.

Remove pits from apricots, crack pits, remove kernels. Grind kernels, blanched almonds and apricots; combine in large preserving kettle; add sugar. Cook very slowly until thick, about 1 hour, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Pour into hot sterilized glasses. Seal at once.

ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—It would be nice and different to report otherwise, but Helen Troy loathes telephones and doesn't know anything about a switchboard.

And she always gets the wrong number when she dials for a personal call. Which may be why the movies and the radio consider her just the type to play the languid telephone operator.

In several films so far she has played nothing else. In "Broadway Melody of 1938," true, she runs a health home, but the switchboard is still suspended alphabetically around her neck. She tries to keep her patients from telephone annoyance.

She's a nice person, blonde, blue-eyed, frank. She makes no claim to beauty but believes her husband looks like Clark Gable. She never expects to play Juliet to any actor's Romeo. Her ambition, of course, is to play something away from a switchboard.

Her husband is Dr. Alton E. Horton. They were childhood sweethearts in Traverse City, Mich., where Helen moved from her native San Francisco. They were married when both were practically children, so in her early thirties she has a nearly grown family. Jane is 10 and Troy, the boy, is 13. She thinks that's nice, too. Instead of putting aside her career for motherhood, she has the most trying part of motherhood behind her.

"Ask Madlyn," says Sylvia Sidney to interviewers. "She'll tell you all about me."

"All?" the interviewers ask.

"Well, nearly all," says Sylvia Sidney.

Madlyn is Sylvia's maid. It's true—she knows about Miss Sidney. She can tell you that Sylvia always puts on stockings inside out, that she won't put a hat on the bed, that she cares little about dresses, but is extravagant about hats and shoes, and that she is an inveterate doodler (doodler: one who scribbles designs while telephoning).

Madlyn has been with Sylvia seven years, been with her to Europe twice. Sylvia trusts her implicitly. Madlyn will tell "nearly all" and no more.

Shirley Temple's Knees Bring Grief to Pseudo Papa

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A psycho-pathic examination was in store today for Albert L. Miller, 36-year-old painter, who wandered into the district attorney's office and announced he was Shirley Temple's "father."

"She is my long lost daughter," Miller insisted, although studio records insist the little actress was born to Mr. and Mrs. Temple of Santa Monica eight years ago last April 23.

"Look at her knees," said Miller, "and you'll see we have the same knee bones."

He pulled up his pant legs to establish the statement.

"And our hands are the same, only mine are larger, and the bridge of her nose is exactly like mine," he continued.

When the man explained he and his wife "broke up" nine years ago in Tulsa, Okla., and she took their

'MARIETTA' AT BROADWAY

Drama, romance, thrills and the gorgeous music of Victor Herbert's greatest operetta are blended in "Naughty Marietta," one of the most popular pictures ever produced, is being revived to meet popular demand, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain of the Broadway. The second feature on the program is "The Great Hospital Mystery."

"Naughty Marietta," tells a graphic story of the settlement of New Orleans by the French in the days of Louis XV and of the love of a disguised French princess, seeking escape from a marriage of state, and an English officer. Such song hits as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "I'm Falling in Love With Someone," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "The Italian Street Song" and all the original music of the operetta is retained with new lyrics by Gus Kahn.

Prominent in a large cast in support of Miss MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are Frank Morgan, Douglas Dumbrille, Joseph Cawthorne, Cecilia Parker, Walter Kingsford, Greta Meyer, Akim Tamiroff, Harold Huber and Edward Brophy.

An unseen stalker stalks the white corridors of a mad-house hospital in "The Great Hospital Mystery," but a nitwit nurse turns mystery into hilarity. The picture is announced as a bewildering sleuth yarn, with a surprise climax. The cast includes Jane Darwell, Sally Blane and Thomas Beck.

WRECK NOTED MOVIE STUDIO

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Real Art, the corrugated tin motion picture studio where the late William Desmond Taylor rose to fame, is to be torn down soon to make way for a maternity hospital.

Plans for St. Anne's Maternity hospital, a $100,000 project, were announced today.

In the early 20's, Taylor, who was mysteriously slain, directed at Real-Art such stars as Bryant Washburn, Mary Miles Minter, Bebe Daniels, Mabel Normand and Jack Mulhall. The studio, covering a square block, became outmoded in 1928 with the coming of talkies because sound was "tossed back" from its tin walls. For the last three years, Real-Art has housed a badminton club.

two children with her, Bonner Richardson, deputy district attorney, interposed.

"But Shirley is only eight," said the deputy.

"Oh," said Miller, "that's a lot of movie malarkey. She's 12 years old and I'm positive she's my daughter."

The district attorney's office turned the man over to city police for investigation.

CIRCUS LESSONS...

Told of the efficiency and speed in transportation methods displayed by the Barnum & Bailey circus in their 1901 tour of Germany, Kaiser Wilhelm sought and received permission for several German officers to accompany the show as observers. The observations of these officers resulted in the adoption by the German army of the circus' system of train-loading.

Under the old method, the army loaded its artillery and livestock from the sides of the individual cars. The much speedier and more efficient circus method was to connect each car with a platform and then to move whatever was to be loaded from the end car through the train to the proper car. The change in German army field kitchens, wherein the old type that required the building of a fire in the open after being brought up to the troops was discarded in favor of cooking wagons with boilers previously heated, was also borrowed from the circus system.

We'll Know When Votes Are Counted

Whenever water bond campaigners get together to compare their notes, they turn worried looks toward the county's largest city and ask: "Wonder what Santa Ana's going to do?"

It is a fact that more opposition to the bond issue is expected from this city than from any other section of the county. The explanation is found in one sentence that has damned other worthy improvement projects before this one. That sentence is: Failure to understand that the need and importance of the program overshadows the cost.

Santa Ana is a city which has many home owners who are not engaged in business. Retired people, many of them. They are the ones, the campaigners say, who will go to the polls next Tuesday and vote "no." And they'll vote "no" simply because they do not fully understand the need for the water program is greater than the comparatively small cost involved.

We recall that in the last school bond election, held solely for the purpose of reducing the interest on school bonds here several thousands of dollars, 10 per cent of the voters said "no," although passage of the issue actually saved them money.

This same group, and perhaps more, will vote against the water bonds because they don't see that the slight rise in taxes involved will be paid back many times by the water, jobs and prosperity which would follow the flood control project.

And when the votes are counted next Wednesday, we'll know just how strong this group is.

They say Japan is training chorus girls to fight in the next war. Pretty soon a man won't be safe even at the front.

Let's Keep the Good Points

With President Roosevelt's supreme court packing bill collapsing like a house of cards in a Kansas cyclone, there dawns a great hope throughout the land that the really valuable parts of his proposal will be salvaged in the compromise measures now being fabricated in congress.

His suggestions for speeding up the entire federal judiciary machine, for simplifying court procedure and for placing the use of the bar within reach of the poor man are excellent and should be preserved.

Likewise is his thought that new blood should be introduced on the bench when its members become less valuable through age or illness.

Certainly the supreme and lower courts are far from perfection, just as far perhaps as the executive and legislative arms of the government.

Just because F. D. R.'s plan to pack the court with New Dealers is unsound, we should not allow his mistake to prejudice us against the good points of court reform.

As the situation adjusts itself in congress and Senator Barkley carries on as majority leader, there is reason to think that hidebound New Dealers and their opposing colleagues will now get together on a court program full of benefit—rather than harm—for the nation.

The British are trying to "save the village blacksmith." They probably need him to shoe the war horse.

Plans Should Be Planned Right

Hog ranches, machine shops and slaughter houses have fired the tempers of neighbors in Orange county—and every year more such problems arise.

Land use planning in this area has passed the stage where it could be accomplished by a few minutes' deliberation on the part of a council, a board of supervisors, or even an appointive commission.

Dr. W. L. Biggam of Anaheim, chairman of the county planning commission, made the following proposal some months ago in a meeting of the Santa Ana realty board, and the board has since echoed his sentiment:

Let the supervisors, and the city councils of the county's cities, look into the idea of employing a planning expert full time, the expense to be shared by the county and the cities.

Get such a man, at whose fingertips would be information on proposed Talbert hog ranches, Santa Ana machine shops, and other controversial points; obtain a man in whom governing bodies would have confidence; follow a county-wide, long-time plan toward a model group of communities.

The realtors' proposal is worth investigation.

Prospectors nowadays use airplanes. Which, of course, makes the gold rush of old look like a slow walk.

They Need a Shock, Mr. Abbey

An unusual suggestion for a way to shock Orange county citizens into realization of the terrific toll of lives traffic is taking this year has been sent to The Journal by the man who is closer to the highway tragedies than anyone else.

Coroner Earl Abbey read a headline the other day announcing: "40 killed in mine blast." He observed the way the story was "played up" and the public concern that was aroused by the catastrophe.

"Now why," he asks, "doesn't The Journal run a big streamer headline saying: '50 Persons Killed in Traffic Accidents.' That's how many that have been killed so far this year. But no one seems to be much concerned about it, simply because the deaths are strung out over a period of several months. Fifty people killed is more startling than 40."

Coroner Abbey's suggestion may not fit in with modern newspaper practices, but the idea behind it is uncommonly sound.

Nation's Capitol

By Raymond Clapper

POLITICIANS OUST BRAIN TRUSTERS

WASHINGTON.—The good old days are back again. Brain trusters are hiding behind, if not under, their desks. Tom Corcoran and Ben Cohen have not been seen for days. Politicians are back in the saddle. Who was at the White House? Jack Garner, Key Pittman, Barkley, Pat Harrison. The old reliable, veterans of the smoke-filled rooms, men who know what to do when five aces show up in the game.

For four years, man and boy, brains have been on top in Washington. Young, fresh brains, fired with faith that moves mountains, or better still, that doesn't admit any mountains are there. Fine, earnest young men who see a cockeyed world around them and proceed to set it right. They see the injustices, the stupidities, the inertia that drag down a nation richly endowed with enough to provide an abundant life for all and leave it. As Roosevelt has said, one third ill-fed, ill-housed, ill-clad. They will set it right. They have worked nobly and hard.

OLD ENEMIES NEVER SLEEP

But our old enemies never sleep, and slowly, with the overpowering force of a glacier, they move on, and catch all in time. And the hopes and dreams of a new world, or just a better world, are caught in a tangled web of compromise, sucked down in what someone has called the retarding undertow of habit, and only fragments are salvaged.

Such is the state of the new deal today. The salvage crew is at work. But it is not the young men who dreamed such fine dreams who compose the salvage crew but a grizzled squad of politicians who know the technique, the Gamers, the Pittmans, the Pat Harrisons, the Barkleys—the craftsmen of the trade. Their views may be like a time-table—subject to change without notice—but they are the views of men. Scientists may find out a great many things about public health and the causes of epidemics, but to get results, you put a crew of first-class plumbers to work.

Roosevelt and young men around him have seen clearly, more clearly than the politicians in congress, some of the things that needed to be done—at least they were able to speak up about them. They saw clearly that one of the troubles was not the constitution but a distorted interpretation of it by the supreme court, and that this distorted interpretation was preventing action. But they did not see, at a certain point, that the court itself had acted and had undertaken to change those interpretations. They did not see that the essence of what they had sought had been achieved.

VETS BACK ON JOB

Complications resulting from this situation have accumulated and now we hear the veteran politicians back on the job undertaking to organize the chaos and sluice it down the ways. That is a familiar story. Christ was followed by Paul, who did the organizing job. Jefferson and the flaming fathers, conservative and cautious, the mechanicians who organized the inspired fragments. The same job remains to be done for the New Deal, and it may fall to the lot of a few politicians to take these bright strands and make useful fabric of them.

MAY MAKE NEW DEAL

If politicians can save the New Deal, then Roosevelt is lucky because he has some able ones to help him. These four horsemen, Garner, Pittman, Barkley and Harrison, know their way around. New Dealers have eyed them distrustfully. They haven't been to college in years. They follow a trade which aimed at tricks but paid little attention to game. They were woodsmen who never saw the forest.

Which may be exactly what is needed now. These trouble shooters may yet be able to settle the court fight one way or the other and salvage for the New Deal those things which might otherwise be lost.

Current Comments

INDUSTRIAL STRIFE

Out in Chicago they are shooting them down like dogs. The hideous truths brought to light by the La Follette Civil Liberties committee showed who did the shooting. It was not the strikers. They got the bullets—in the back. Tom Girdler, in my opinion, is a classic example of brutality and callousness. Furthermore, he is a damn poor business man. His stockholders have been irreparably damaged by his violent and arrogant stupidity. Henry Ford is another who has built himself up with propaganda. At mechanical production he is a whiz but at economics he is a dud.

As cold-blooded businessmen these gentlemen should know they could make money through collective bargaining. I have made a study of the Colorado strikes of 1913, 1914 and 1915. Colorado is still paying the bills. The cost of granting all the strikers' demands would have been less than the cost of guns and troops. Not to speak of human lives.

The message I want to get over is one of peace. I propose that instead of cussing the national labor relations board and advocating lawlessness, the industrialists start obeying the law themselves.—Rep. Maury Maverick.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Behind all the maneuvering, jockeying and turmoil that has churned the capital into dizzy bedlam for the last week lies just one thing—the desperate desire of many opponents of the President's court bill to avoid a show of hands on the issue.

Leaders like Senators Wheeler of Montana, Burke of Nebraska, O'Mahoney of Wyoming and McCarran of Nevada have out their bridges behind them and are ready to risk their political futures. But many of their followers are literally in a blue funk over the prospect of putting themselves on record.

They dislike the court legislation, want to see it axed, but are scared to death over having to oppose the President publicly. They are delighted to sabotage behind his back, but don't like to come out in the open. This is particularly true of the boys who come up for election next year. They fear, and with good reason, that their stand will encourage candidates to take the field against them on the issue of failing to support Roosevelt.

For, despite the terrific political hammering, the President's name still has halo-box magic. Not even his most die-hard opponents deny that. Pat McCarran, in his senate speech on the court issue, virtually admitted that his attitude would cost him his seat next year.

So hardly had the news of Senator Robinson's death permeated the capital than a furious under-cover drive got under way to persuade or bluff the President into dropping the court measure.

SHELVING DRIVE

Their first tactic was to scare him into quitting. Burke and Wheeler spread the word that they had enough private assurances to send the Logan compromise bill back to committee, and that when the senate reconvened after the Little Rock funeral they would immediately make such a motion.

It was a bold bluff and for a few hours had the White House in a sweat. The line-up before Robinson's death was very close, with the anti's certain of between 42 and 44 votes. With five more reliable converts, the opposition would be in the saddle. But a frantic administration check disclosed that despite all their cocky talk the anti's did not have those necessary few votes, and that the situation, while close, was unchanged.

With this bluff a flop, the anti's turned indirect pressure on Roosevelt. They persuaded a group of jittery freshman senators to call on him and suggest a truce. The President's answer was:

"The senate will, of course, do as it sees fit in this matter. But I am not quitting. Win or lose I shall insist on the record being made clear and unmistakable. I shall insist on this so that when the court next year begins handing down decisions the country will know who is to blame for failure of liberal measures to obtain validation."

The delegation emerged with beaded brows. Their worst fears were confirmed. The clear implication of Roosevelt's words was that he was prepared to throw the issue into the 1938 congressional elections.

It was the effect which the freshman waverers, plus the furious propaganda drive being waged by the opposition, that caused Roosevelt

One Man's Opinion

By R. F. PAINE

William Green, head of the A. F. L., claims that his labor organization has a membership of 3,061,000.

Mr. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., claims that his labor organization has a membership of 3,000,000 and more.

The executive council of Mr. Green's organization will meet on Aug. 21 to increase membership dues for a war fund with which to combat Mr. Lewis' organization. What war fund Mr. Lewis will raise is not yet determined.

It means industrial war, and non-combatants will sustain a big share of the loss and suffering, as they do in all wars.

Six millions of laborers in the A. F. L. and the C. I. O., some 30,000,000 of laborers not in these organizations and perhaps 100,000,000 of laborers in any labor organization, counting men, women, children and dependents whose interests and welfare cannot avoid, in some degree, the effects of war, industrial or other sort.

That A. F. L. should squelch C. I. O., or vice versa, is one matter. That their war should be conducted at the cost of the whole country is an entirely different matter, one in which the government of the entire country should decidedly concern itself. Six per cent of America cannot for long run America with the spirit of "The Country Be Damned" and then have recently been frequent demonstrations that that is the spirit with which labor organization war is to be conducted. Organization of labor to bargain for and secure better conditions for labor, by all means. But, how many factories, mines and stores are Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis going to close in their war? By their war how many millions will be added to the big army of jobless, workers who want to work and don't care a cuss whether Green makes Lewis take the count, or Lewis knocks out Green. How many more able workers to go on relief? How many businesses, little and big, to endure loss and stagnation while Lewis and Green spend their war funds, regardless of the rights and welfare of all of us?

Is dominance by greedy, selfish, merciless organized dollars to be replaced by reckless, lawless, unpatriotic organized labor? Very much depends upon the leadership of the labor movement. A civil war between the embattled labor organizations, at heavy cost to all of the country, cannot fail to fiercely arouse public opinion seriously hostile to all unionization, just as the oppression and scoundrelism of entrenched capital have caused the great changes in national policies which we are now witnessing.

The dangerous, self-seeking, wholly unpatriotic leaders of organized labor should be run out into oblivion by labor itself and the nation. A civil war between labor should have the unqualified, courageous support of the American press, now somewhat given to the policy of straddling with a view to displeasing nobody.

The Mailbag

TOUGH ON MARRIED PEOPLE

To the Editor: The romance of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace, the lady perhaps better known as Miss Man West, suggests several questions.

Under the harsh laws of some of the eight states, unless by the community property system, whatever the wife earns belongs to her husband. Even in our favored clime, notwithstanding our rejection of the common law, hubby may collect and spend wife's wages, and not infrequently does so.

It is true she may prevent that unpleasant interference, if she is well advised, by "living separate" from him, though just what those words mean, our law makers have failed to define. Does the expression mean living in another room, or another house, or what? Twenty-six years' of absence from him, however, affords pretty strong evidence that Mr. Wallace cannot succeed in securing Miss West's "earnings and accumulations."

But just here another difficulty suggests itself. Does the law of California, or that of some other state, where Mr. Wallace lived, apply? "Every person has in law a residence," declares the political code of California. "There can be only one residence" and "the residence of the husband is the residence of the wife." Similar language is found in legal treatises and decisions of courts, frequently using "domicile" instead of "residence."

Probably Mr. Wallace's lawyers intend to take advantage of the fact that Mr. Wallace lived in states where a wife cannot escape her husband's power over her earnings even living separate from him.

But what is domicile or residence? Mr. Dorrance's estate paid in succession taxes of 17 million dollars in succession taxes to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania because the courts of that state decided that he had his domicile there, which did not deter the sovereign state of New Jersey from collecting another tax of a slightly larger amount on the same succession, because the New Jersey judges were convinced he had his domicile in that state. Each court recognized that a person can have only one domicile, but each claimed the right to determine which was that domicile.

Even the united wisdom of the supreme court of the United States was unable to find a formula which would avoid the injustice of double payments, which indeed, might have been multiplied had other states pursued the lead. The

WHIMSIES

NEW YORK.—Not many public gifts have been bestowed so unostentatiously as that of the $20,000,000 art collection Jules S. Bache, the banker, gave to the city recently. Tossing in his Fifth avenue home for a museum to house it and providing endowment for maintenance.

Each don't have any lawyer announce the donation several hours after he was on the high seas, headed for Europe to visit his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Miller. The collection is one of the finest private selections in the world, comparable to those of Mellon and Widener.

The donor, a roly poly worldling with a nose that sticks out, a monocle clamped in eye, is a look-alike for E. Phillips Oppenheim. At 76 he is a lively patron of the arts, accomplished bon vivant and a striking figure at important first nights. Recently he was headlined as a tax evasioneer!

For years the banker has been a citizen of the world, maintaining fully staffed establishments in London, Paris, New York and Palm Beach. His select and private dinners are models for gourmets. He has, as much as any man of his time, enjoyed life to the fullest.

Interlude: I popped in on my dentist, Guy Campbell, again yesterday. We agreed as I settled in the chair that it was a wonderfully fine day, so fine indeed that he decided to yank one of the few remaining stumps. I came up bleeding and complaining "I don't have any fun any more"—but we continued to agree that it was a wonderfully fine day.

They were talking of the wonders at world fairs especially the Columbian exposition at Chicago. All in the discussion were around my age and most of them recalled artistic touches of architecture, marvelous ground planning and exquisite dome mosaics. Which more than ever impressed me with the utter worthlessness of my mind. The only thing that impressed itself upon me indelibly at the Chicago fair was a horse made of prunes.

Too, of all the philosophy I heard during boyhood, that which clings more firmly to mind was uttered by a Silly Joe who, talking to himself, muttered: "I get all I want to eat without work and still they call me crazy."

I have just seen a circular letter from one of the civic organizations touching on the subject of Communism. It is—to use the deb's overworked word—"definitely" an alarmist's epistle. It says Hitlerism and Fascism, whatever their faults, were organized to combat the Moscow menace. That Franco's battle in Spain is simply the honest people fighting the Red influence. And that Trotsky is now at our border for a purpose—and finally it's time for the boys here to come down out of the hills with their squirrel guns. All very depressing on a sunny day.

Most of us are more unselfish than we think. An excitable fellow at times—O, well it was this winter if you must know—flared up the other day and shrieked something that lacked courtesy to air and lovely lady visitor. Both of us were immediately uncomfortable about it. I slept badly two nights. Today I thought of sending flowers and did. But an honest analyzing flushes out the truth—that the gift wasn't so much to help the lady as to relieve my own state of discomfiture.

One of the cartoonists has a variant of the "Keep Smiling" sign in his studio. It reads: "Don't Get Sore." I abhor grinners, so I like the new note. I lived more than half my life before I learned the value of silence under every attack, no matter how unfair. Retaliation gets nowhere. If one has been unjustly attacked, one will do more to rectify the error than issuing denials and far more effectively and convincingly. One has only to wait.

Thingumabobs: Richard Watts, Jr. and George Jean Nathan have become cronies among the critics. Walter Chrysler, Jr., is reputedly the backer of several intimate and exclusive restaurants. Richard Bennett was once a pants maker in Logansport, Indiana.

No one tops Bugs Baer for cockeyed exaggerations. For instance, his recent crack about the Black Tom explosion and the cash settlements being demanded. Baer said that for his part, he owed them a nickel because the explosion put a head on a glass of beer he was holding in Times Square.

Dorrance family paid a penalty for the principle of states' rights, but few knew, or cared, for poor Mr. Dorrance whose estate amounted to only $115,000,000, a paltry reward for his successful revolution in the art of canning peas. On the other hand, the sympathy of the world goes out to Miss West, who, if not the sweetest, is at least a queen of the screen.
